HOOVER TO GIVE FIRST CAMPAIGN TALK IN AUGUST

To Deliver Notification Speech During Week of August 8-15.

FIGHT ON DEPRESSION WILL BE POINTED OUT

President Again Postpones Signing New Relief Measure.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

After informing party leaders of his desire for a swift and simple ceremony which would entail a minimum of noisy fanfare, President Hoover yesterday approved tentative plans for his formal notification here during the second week in August.

If plans now being perfected are finally approved, the President will deliver his notification address from the White House some evening during the week of August 8-15.

Acting on the belief that the notification ceremony should sound the keynote of the campaign, the President was said to prefer the evening ceremony, principally because it would afford an opportunity to give a direct account of his stewardship since 1929 to millions of citizens by radio.

Although Mr. Hoover received the notification committee in 1928 at his home in Palo Alto, plans for a California trip this year were abandoned a month ago, when the Chief Executive publicly announced he would give his "undivided attention" during the summer to his official duties.

Notification of Curtis.

Representative Snell, of New York, the Republican leader in the House and chairman of the presidential notification committee, disclosed the tentative Washington plans yesterday after a White House conference. Soon afterward, party workers in Republican national headquarters in the Barr Building took up the task of perfecting arrangements for the ceremonies.

Although White House officials yesterday said that the task of reorganizing the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for its added burdens under the gigantic emergency relief bill passed last week had prevented the President's beginning work on his acceptance address, there were indications that the general outlines of the campaign keynote already have been decided upon. It is expected to deal almost exclusively with the various phases of the three-year war against the depression, and with future plans for economic stabilization.

Will Make Few Addresses.

Thereafter, the President's personal part in the campaign will be limited to perhaps half a dozen addresses, each dealing with a major problem or policy of administration. Unless the campaign outlook changes considerably during the summer from the prospect now reported by party managers, practically all of these addresses will be delivered by radio from Washington.

Because of difficulties encountered in finding two outstanding financiers qualified for the vacancies on the R. F. C. Board created by the withdrawal

Doctor Who Fled Girl's Death Held

Admits Illegal Operation, but Plans to Fight Murder Charge.

Springdale, Ark., July 19 (A.P.).—After remaining in hiding for three months in a little farming community near here, Dr. Richard E. Thacker, Oklahoma City physician, was arrested today and was said by officers to have admitted he performed an illegal operation upon which a murder charge in Oklahoma City is based.

Although ... is charged specifically only with the murder of Miss Bobbie Lou Thompson, a telegraph company employe, he also has been accused of several other illegal operations. One of them is alleged to have caused the death of Mrs. Frankie Lee, wife of a University of Oklahoma football player.

Chief of Police G. D. Lichlyter said the former Army physician told him he performed the operation upon Miss Thompson only after she had pleaded with him and he had refused two or three times. He said he would fight the murder charge. He was not questioned about other operations laid to him.

Wage Demands Met, Strikers to Return

Mass Meeting at High Point, N. C., Follows Busy Day During Which 15,000 Mill Workers Were Made Idle.

High Point, N. C., July 19 (U.P.).—Strikers at seven hosiery mills here were told tonight to return to work after it was announced that wage demands at the mills had been met.

The strikers were told to return at a mass meeting of 2,000 workers tonight, climaxing a busy day with textile mill, hosiery mill and furniture factory workers forcing the shutdown of plants here and in surrounding towns.

Of the seven hosiery mills three had met wage demands previously but the workers had gone out on strike in sympathy. It was not known whether the seven mills would be open tomorrow.

High Point, N. C., July 19 (A.P.).—Approximately 15,000 persons were thrown out of work tonight in five North Carolina manufacturing centers after groups of strikers and unemployed toured about, cutting off electric power and either forcing or persuading workers to leave their posts. Nearly 150 mills were closed in High Point, Jamestown, Kernersville, Lexington and Thomasville.

The situation developed from the strike early yesterday of 400 operatives in a hosiery mill who objected to a wage cut and walked out. The operatives are unorganized, and the movement was without apparent leadership, but it spread rapidly throughout this area.

There was practically no violence, but in several communities the roving bands met resistance which was short-lived. Several persons received minor injuries.

By early afternoon, every manufacturing plant in Thomasville, 6 miles from High Point, were closed and the invading groups were spreading their forces into Kernersville, Lexington and Jamestown where other mills were shut down in rapid order.

All plants at High Point were picketed, but the situation remained quiet. Adj. Gen. J. Van B. Metts, commander of the North Carolina National Guard, was ordered here today by Gov. Gardner to prepare a report on the situation.

REGIME IN AUSTRIA FACES FALL TODAY

Press Attacks Chancellor in Arranging of Loan From League.

Vienna, July 19 (A.P.).—Unless eleventh-hour negotiations can pacify the opposition, Chancellor Engelborg Dollfus and his government are almost certain to fall when he faces Parliament tomorrow to report on the recent League of Nations loan.

[The mixed committee of the league reported on July 15 that a concerted loan of 300,000,000 schillings (currently about $42,000,000) had been arranged for Austria. France and Great Britain would be the largest participants, contributing 100,000,000 schillings each.]

The opposition is confident of defeating ratification of the Geneva loan and simultaneously the cabinet on the basis of a pre-Parliament canvass.

The press of all shades is vehemently denouncing the chancellor as "selling Austria's liberty and independence" for another 20 years for a mere 300,000,000 schillings.

It is charged that Austria will receive only $16,000,000 cash, the rest representing a transfer from the Bank for International Settlements and the Bank of England of short-term loans to long-term obligations.

Another factor against the cabinet is the strong feeling among various groups that Austria's salvation lies in union with Germany, or at least a customs union, such as was thwarted by French influence last year.

Martin Is Vermont Senate Candidate

Democrats Pick Bennington Man to Go Before Voters' Primary.

Montpelier, Vt., July 19 (A.P.).—Fred C. Martin, of Bennington, was chosen as the Democratic candidate for United States senator from Vermont at a convention here today.

Martin's name will go before the Democratic voters in the State primary in September. No opposition is expected and he probably will oppose the Republican selection in the November election.

A United States senator will be elected to succeed Senator Warren E. Austin, Republican, who is now serving out the unexpired term of the late Porter H. Dale. Senator Austin is expected to be a candidate to succeed himself. Martin was a supporter of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt at the Democratic national convention.

Bank Employes Look on As Bandits Get $2,000

Union City, Tenn., July 19 (A.P.).—The Farmers Bank at Woodland Mills, seven miles east of here, was robbed of approximately $2,000 today by three bandits who held employes at bay and rankacked cash drawers.

Their automobile was found abandoned near Hickman, Ky., a short while later and a bundle containing about $50 in currency was recovered.

200 Cholera Deaths Reported From China

(Associated Press.)

The State Department has been informed that cholera epidemics have broken out in Tientsin, Nanking and Shanghai, China, with nearly 200 deaths reported and more than 2,000 cases.

So far no Americans have been reported stricken.

BUREAUS GIVEN TIME TO STUDY FURLOUGH

Chairman Jones to Call on Department Heads for Report in October.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

The Senate economy committee will give Government department executives the remainder of the summer to work out furlough details before launching a study into possible changes, it was said authoritatively yesterday.

Chairman Wesley L. Jones will leave for Washington before the end of the week without calling a meeting of his committee. He has a campaign on his hands. His clerical force has been authorized to make no inquiry during the interval.

In October, after bureau chiefs have had every opportunity to observe the economy act in operation, letters will be circulated in all of the departments by the economy committee.

Department heads and subordinate bureau chiefs will be called on for their candid opinion as to need for modification. The letters will go farther and ask for suggestions on added economies. Replies will furnish the basis for preliminary study when Congress reconvenes.

Meantime, Senator Jones warned department executives to stay within appropriations, reiterating his opposition to any deficiency legislation at the next session.

"I think it the duty of every head of departments and Government establishments to live within these appropriations and to administer their appropriations so as to not encourage

Grandi as Ambassador To U. S. Is Forecast

Rome, July 19 (U.P.).—Changes in the cabinet of Premier Benito Mussolini, probably including retirement of Foreign Minister Dino Grandi, were forecast tonight in well-informed sources.

Grandi is expected to be appointed to an ambassadorial post. He has frequently been mentioned as the next envoy to the United States when Ambassador de Martino's term there is ended.

Hungry Miners Menace Coal Areas in Indiana

Sullivan, Ind., July 19 (U.P.).—A threat that violence may break out at any moment hung tonight over western Indiana coal fields where hungry men with revolvers strapped on their sides loitered around mine shafts and invited officials to arrest them.

Thousands are idle. None has worked since March 31. Many have not worked more than twenty days in the last year. Their families, living in shacks in "Shantytown" are starving. The men are desperate.

Seaman Dies in Virginia In Three-Story Plunge

Portsmouth, Va., July 19 (A.P.).—P. J. Simpson, a seaman, second class, attached to the battleship Mississippi, was killed today when he was thrown, jumped or fell from a third-story window of the Missy Club here. Police and naval authorities launched separate investigations. Simpson's home address was listed by naval records as Nashville, Tenn.

Six seamen found asleep in the club were turned over to Capt. W. D. Puleston, commanding officer of the battleship.

DICTATORSHIP FOR PRUSSIA SEEMS SURE

Important Conference Is Called For Today by Von Papen.

ESSEN LORD MAYOR MAY BE APPOINTED

Would Serve Until Regular Government Can Be Constituted.

Berlin, July 19 (A.P.).—Dictatorship for Prussia, with a federal commissioner in the saddle, seemed inevitable tonight on the eve of an important conference to which Chancellor Franz von Papen summoned Dr. Karl Severing and Heinrich Hirtsiefer, the interior and welfare ministers of the state.

Every effort of the newly elected Prussian Diet to choose a premier who would have majority support has failed, and the government for several weeks has remained in the hands of the resigned Braun-Severing cabinet.

The federal government has been under insistent pressure from the followers of Adolf Hitler and Dr. Alfred Hugenberg. At the same time there have been bloody political clashes throughout the state, and the Prussian government has been in conflict with the federal government. The result has been a situation considered intolerable by Chancellor von Papen and Baron Wilhelm von Gayl, the federal minister of interior.

Has Felt Hamstrung.

On the other side, the Prussian government has felt hamstrung by federal forces, especially the regulations permitting political groups to wear uniforms.

No official announcement has been made of the selection of the federal commissioner for the state, but newspapers conjecture that he will be Lord Mayor Franz Bracht, of Essen, a member of the Centrist party and the state secretary in the chancellory of Dr. Wilhelm Marx.

The commissioner would serve until a regular government can be constituted. This appointment will mean the removal of the present Prussian cabinet. With the aid of the various state bureaus, he alone will govern Prussia's 38,000,000 inhabitants.

Similar Step in Saxony.

In 1923 President Friedrich Ebert resorted to similar measures in Saxony. At that time appointment of a federal commissioner was enough to impel the parties in the Diet to get together and elect a state government, whereupon the commissioner withdrew.

At present the situation is more difficult as south German states, jealous of their prerogatives, oppose such drastic action in pivotal Prussia, the largest state in the Reich, and members of the Prussian cabinet insist that, despite handicaps, they are succeeding in functioning.

Funeral Rite Tomorrow For Uncle of President

Waterloo, Iowa, July 19 (A.P.).—Funeral services will be conducted here Friday for Joseph Hepenstall Hoover, 75, uncle of President Hoover, who died Sunday at Pueblo, Colo., Sanitarium.

Hoover was an inventor and a native of West Branch, Iowa, the birthplace of the President. He lived in Waterloo for 31 years.

REBEL AND WAR THREATS PERIL PEACE OF LATINS

Many Killed as Bolivians and Paraguayans Fight in Gran Chaco.

LOYALISTS CAPTURE TOWN IN SAO PAULO

Neutrals Urge Disputants in Boundary Case to Reopen Discussions.

(United Press.)

Rebellion, threats of assassination and demands for war disturbed five South American republics yesterday.

The government of Brazil, largest nation of the Western Hemisphere, drew soldiers and warships around the rebellious State of Sao Paulo and prepared to loose aerial bombs on that rich coffee-producing region because peaceful efforts were unsuccessful.

An official communique said the government troops captured the town of Itarare, in the southern part of Sao Paulo State, advancing toward the rebel stronghold. It was reported government forces had dispersed a small group of rebels commanded by Capt. Trinidades and his son, both of whom were wounded and captured near Santa Ana do Livramento, in the State of Rio Grande do Sul. Previously the government of Brazil had said Rio Grande do Sul remained loyal to the Rio de Janeiro regime.

Bolivians Demand War.

In La Paz, the mountain capital of tin-producing Bolivia, demonstrators marched to the presidential palace demanding war with Paraguay, the little nation with which Bolivia has long disputed the Gran Chaco jungle frontier. A new clash was reported from the front.

Prior to the demonstration, military headquarters at Munos reported that on July 15 more than 300 Paraguayans surrounded the Bolivian forces at Santa Cruz, near the Gran Chaco section, which threatened to lead the two countries into war several years ago. There was a clash in which at least two persons were killed. The report said artillery fire was heard.

Paraguayan troops have recaptured Fort Pitiantuta, in the Gran Chaco, after a battle with Bolivian forces, it was announced officially at Asuncion last night. The battle lasted for 18 hours, and the Paraguayans took the fort Saturday night. An undetermined number were killed and wounded on both sides.

Unconfirmed radio telegraph dispatches said the Paraguayan government had called home its army officers who are studying in Europe, and said Paraguayan troops were be-

Hoover Names Curtis As Proxy at Olympiad

(Associated Press).

President Hoover yesterday named Vice President Curtis to represent him as head of the Nation in opening the Olympic games in Los Angeles on July 30.

The Chief Executive several months ago accepted an invitation to open the games, but recently announced that because of the press of governmental affairs it probably would be impossible for him to attend. The brief announcement given out at the White House yesterday was interpreted as definitely precluding any trip by the President to the West Coast in the near future.

Hunger Marchers Parade Around Indiana's Capitol

Are Prevented From Entering, But Spokesman Warns Legislators of Mass Starvation and Suicide Unless Relief Is Granted.

Indianapolis, July 19 (A.P.).—A group calling themselves "hunger marchers," paraded themselves around the Indiana State Capitol today bearing a red flag and finally succeeded in sending a spokesman before the House of the General Assembly, which is now in special session.

The main body of marchers, estimated by police to number several hundred, was barred from entering the Statehouse, but they assembled on the steps immediately below the House chamber and listened to an address by Zip Kolch, of Gary, one of their number.

The "hunger marchers" began assembling here last Sunday, delegations coming from different parts of the State in trucks and private automobiles.

A crowd of several hundred persons assembled outside the Capitol and marched around the building shouting: "We want bread; we want food."

After their spokesman had addressed the House, the marchers paraded about the city and finally disbanded without disorder. The marchers carried banners on which were inscribed demands for unemployment relief.

Wenzell Stocker, of Hammond, selected as the speaker to address the representatives, said that in the Calumet district in northern Indiana, "mass starvation and suicide" will result unless the Legislature appropriates $25,000,000 for unemployment relief.

No attempt was made to call upon Gov. Harry G. Leslie. The governor's office was guarded by police. The governor expressed a willingness to meet a delegation of five representatives of the marchers, but no one appeared at his office.

Veteran Seized Here As Kidnaping Fugitive

Former Marine Trapped by Police "Flyer" in Service Record at Navy After He Requests Duplicate Discharge Certificate.

A World War veteran's attempt to straighten out his service record in order to borrow on his bonus certificate may send him back to the Ohio State Penitentiary to finish service of a 20-year sentence on a charge of kidnaping a 12-year-old boy.

Apollo DeBelvediere Murphy, 48 years old, was arrested in the office of the Bureau of Navigation of the Navy Department yesterday afternoon when clerks found a "flyer," dated 1920, and asking that he be apprehended, inclosed with the man's record as a private with the Sixth Regiment of Marines from May, 1918, to September, 1919.

The man appeared yesterday to request a duplicate discharge certificate, explaining that he had lost the original. He was told to wait while the records were examined. A clerk came out and whispered something to Fred Moore, in charge of the floor of the bureau, and soon Private B. F. Bean made his appearance.

"Arrest that man," Moore said, indicating Murphy, who was seated in a corner of the office. He offered no resistance and after being taken to the precinct station, he freely admitted that he was wanted in Ohio, police said. He confessed to having escaped from the penitentiary at Columbus in 1920 after serving fourteen months of a one to twenty year sentence on the kidnaping charge.

Murphy did not know that additional information, such as police posters, are sent to the Navy Department for inclosure with the records of former sailors and marines.

The former marine, according to police information, entered a guilty plea to having kidnaped Paul Hopping, 12-year-old son of a Batavia, Ohio, farmer, on November 7, 1919. He is said to have taken the boy to Los Angeles, where Murphy was arrested in 1920. The boy was returned home.

Police said Murphy told them he took the child at the plea of the boy's mother. After his arrest, Murphy said, the boy's mother apparently suffered

7 KILLED AS BLAST DESTROYS VESSEL

Washington Official Among 9 Injured in Tragedy at Alexandria Bay, N. Y.

Alexandria Bay, N. Y., July 19 (A.P.).—Seven men were believed killed and nine were injured late today when a dynamite explosion on the drill boat America blew the boat to bits and shook the St. Lawrence Valley for miles around.

A ton and a half of dynamite which had just been packed in a drill hole on the rocky bottom of the St. Lawrence River exploded prematurely, hurling men, machinery and splintered remains of the 150-foot drill boat high into the air.

When the smoke and flying wreckage cleared, the America had disappeared. Only floating timbers and planks appeared. Upon these a handful of survivors dragged themselves to await rescue.

Two mangled bodies were taken tonight from the bottom of the river by a diver working with powerful electric lamps. One was identified as that of Ivan Rush, 32, boss driller, believed to have been from La Salle, Ill.

The other body was believed to be that of Joe Slusarick, 24, a "dynamite man," also from La Salle. The diver went back to find five other bodies believed lying at the river bottom.

Plowing upstream through the floating trash came an oil tanker on its way to the Great Lakes. She threw life preservers overboard, witnesses said, then proceeded on her way, leaving the work of rescue to a fleet of motorboats which scurried out from among the Thousand Islands of the St. Lawrence.

Sixteen men were at the scene of drilling operations in the American channel, about 2 miles from the American shore at Chippewa Bay, when the explosion occurred. Chippewa Bay is about 6 miles from Alexandria Bay.

The nine injured were in hospitals at Ogdensburg and Brockville, Ontario, most of them with leg injuries. Ankles were crushed and legs broken as the explosion hurled the deck of the America skyward beneath the drill crew. Among the injured was United States Inspector Carna, believed to be from Washington, D. C.

Thousands of natives and summer residents of the fashionable Thousand Islands hurried to the scene in automobiles and motorboats, drawn by the concussion which thundered down the valley at 4 o'clock—the hour shifts were changing.

Representative Tucker In Critical Condition

Lexington, Va., July 19 (A.P.).—Henry St. George Tucker, representative from the Tenth Virginia District, was in a critical condition at his home here today. He has been in ill health for several months and was absent for a large part of the recent session of Congress.

His children were called to his bedside today.

Gen. Butler Withdraws From Senate Campaign

Defeated by Senator James J. Davis for the Republican nomination at the April primary, Butler was nominated by the Prohibition party by a sufficient number of voters writing his name on the ballot.

SUMMER INQUIRIES PUT INTO LIMELIGHT

Waterway, Loan and Other Probes of Congress May Create Bombshells.

By J. B. McDONNELL.

Potential political dynamite may be set off in Washington in the forthcoming campaign through the agency of any one of several congressional investigation committees which still are functioning despite departure of Congress for the hinterlands.

Investigations which have been launched by Senate and House committees include inquiries into the St. Lawrence waterway treaty, loans made by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the Federal Farm Board, the New York Stock Exchange, economy in Federal expenditures, competition of Government agencies with private businesses, campaign expenditures, veterans' expenditures, and others, with a likelihood of a future inquiry into the distribution of Government-held wheat and cotton through the Red Cross.

The treaty negotiated by the administration with Canada incident to the St. Lawrence waterway development already has been put into the political limelight by the exchange between President Hoover, his party's candidate for another term in the Executive Mansion, and Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, Democratic candidate for the Presidency. Gov. Roosevelt suggested to the President that New York's interests were so great he would like to confer with

Donnelly Kidnap Suspect Convicted

35-Year Term Fixed by Jury in 1931 Abduction of Wealthy Woman.

Kansas City, July 19 (A.P.).—Charles Mele, a gambler, was convicted tonight of kidnaping Mrs. Nell Q. Donnelly, wealthy garment manufacturer. A 35-year prison term was affixed by the jury, which deliberated less than an hour and a half.

Two other men, Martin Deputy, alias Depew, a steam shovel operator, and Walter Werner, motor car mechanic, previously were sentenced to life terms after pleading guilty to the same charge. Lacey Browning, Holliday, Kans., farmer, was sentenced to 25 years' imprisonment.

Mrs. Donnelly was abducted in front of her residence last December 16 and was taken in a motor car to a cottage near Bonner Springs, Kans. There she was kept for 34 hours while the kidnapers sought vainly to collect $75,000 ransom. She was released unharmed December 18.

Girl Dumped From Auto With 2 Bullets in Head

New York, July 19 (A.P.).—A girl dumped from an automobile with two bullets in her head was near death in a hospital tonight, but she refused to elaborate on meager details she told of the episode.

Miss Rose Wasserstein, 21, of Coney Island, said she went for an automobile ride late last night with a man she knew as Harry Grossman and another whom Grossman introduced only as "Jack." Police expressed the opinion the men had been hired to kill her. The investigation took on a new angle when police began checking information that Miss Wasserstein had recently filed a $100,000 breach of promise suit against a New York business man.

BUTLER WARNS B. E. F. TO STAY IN WASHINGTON

GLASSFORD CHECKS FOOD EMBARGO PLAN

To stem the rapidly swelling tide of desertions from the bonus army, Commander in Chief Walter W. Waters had the fiery Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, U. S. M. C., retired, give a "pep" talk to the veterans at a mass meeting last night at Camp Marks.

As the colorful marine, clad in blue shirt and blue trousers, warned the men that as soon as they lowered the camp flag, the movement would evaporate, the clerks in the Veterans' Bureau were still issuing transportation to veterans who wish to go home.

Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, won a skirmish yesterday afternoon when an order of Commander in Chief Waters to withhold food from insurgents in the bonus army was countermanded after a protest by Gen. Glassford.

Waters had ordered that no food be issued to those veterans, numbering about 800, who have withheld or withdrawn their allegiance to Waters' army. Gen. Glassford threatened to establish a commissary to insure an equitable distribution of food unless the order was rescinded.

A flurry of excitement was caused at the White House yesterday when a report spread that a group of bonus-seeking veterans was en route to the Executive Mansion to picket. However, it developed that the group of 40 veterans were moving from billets in the Southwest to new quarters near Twenty-first street and Virginia avenue northwest.

White House Gates Close.

The veterans were met by a detail of police. No attempt was made to establish a picket line. The men folded the flags they were carrying and skirted the White House.

As soon as reports reached officials that the veterans were en route to demonstrate, an extra detail of 100 policemen was rushed to the scene and the iron gates of the White House were closed and guarded. Only those who had credentials to enter the grounds were permitted access.

President Hoover had left his office for luncheon in the White House when the word spread that the veterans were on the way. He was said to be unaware of the excitement outside the gates.

Capt. Edward J. Kelly, of the Third Precinct, was in charge of the police detail. He said the veterans were orderly and showed no signs of intending to picket. A policeman, he said, was escorting them to the new billets.

Fare Loan Applications.

Veteran Administrator Frank T. Hines called at the White House late yesterday and informed President

Man Pleads Not Guilty In Lindbergh Blackmail

Franklin, N. H., July 19 (A.P.).—Adam Jasewich, 35, of Springfield, Vt., was held in $2,000 bail in Municipal Court today on a charge of blackmail in an attempt to extort $10,000 ransom from Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Jasewich pleaded not guilty and his case was continued until July 25. He was alleged to have mailed a letter to Col. Lindbergh demanding the ransom on penalty of injury to the Lindbergh baby who had been kidnaped and who later was found dead in New Jersey.

HEAT KILLS 10 MORE IN SPREAD OF WAVE

National Death List for Past Week Almost at 150 Mark.

(Associated Press.)

Old Sol put the Nation on the spot yesterday.

Ten more persons died and hundreds were prostrated as smothering heat made most of the country gasp. The casualty list for the past week's heat wave neared the 150 mark.

Only a few isolated sections, notably the head of the Great Lakes region, were in comfort, most States recording temperatures near the century reading.

Detroit blistered as the mercury shoved up to 97, a new July 19 record, and four persons died there. Milwaukee had a similar temperature and two deaths, while inland Wisconsin sweltered under temperatures of 100 degrees.

Minnesota was divided against itself as portions of the State saw a 97 degree sun that killed two persons, while at Duluth on Lake Superior, citizens were in comfort at 69.

East Coast Temperatures.

The Chicago area suffered in 96 degrees and two persons died in the city.

The East Coast, previously enjoying moderate temperatures, joined the rest of the Nation in mopping its brow. It was 94 here; 93 at Baltimore; a few degrees under 90 at New York City, and other cities reported readings in the same bracket.

Indiana and Ohio sizzled. It was 102 at South Bend, Ind., and Findlay, Ohio, had a like reading.

In Nebraska it was 98 at Omaha, 4 degrees above Monday, and 99 at Lincoln. The Iowa corn belt drooped with 100 degrees.

The Southwest reported a somewhat cooling breeze beginning to take the edge off the sun's rays, but the heat wave still was unbroken and temperatures remained in the high 90's.

Showers Aid Some of Dixie.

Light showers fell at New Orleans, Memphis, Atlanta and a few other points, but Nashville suffered under a 94-degree temperature in the early afternoon. The mercury got up to 95 at Richmond. The weather man said it was "just another hot day in Virginia," with no rain in sight. Charlotte's mercury went to 92, and the same figure was reached at Montgomery, Ala.

Florida enjoyed good breezes from the ocean. While many other points from the South were experiencing 90-degree weather in the afternoon, it was 84 at Miami and about 89 at Jacksonville.

The warm weather in Washington will continue today and probably tomorrow, it was announced by the United States Weather Bureau last night. The maximum temperature yesterday was 94 degrees, at 4:45 p. m. The kiosk showed a maximum of 101 degrees. No prostrations were reported by police or at hospitals.

PRESIDENT TO MAKE ADDRESS IN AUGUST

of Eugene Meyer, governor of the Federal Reserve Board, and Paul Bestor, Farm Loan Commissioner, President Hoover again delayed signing the new relief bill yesterday. It was announced that the measure would be signed as soon as the new board members had been selected, but there was no intimation the appointments might be expected today.

The task of rounding out the new R. F. C. Board has been complicated by the threat from both sides of Capitol Hill, during the last ten days, that opponents of the administration would attempt to make the relief agency a political football of the forthcoming campaign. Speaker Garner's assault upon the corporation through the so-called publicity clause already has hampered R. F. C. operations, despite assurances from the Senate that publication of bank loans still was subject to action by either House of Congress. In addition, the prospect of a constant "investigation" of operations by the Couzens committee has repelled at least one prospective nominee for the new board.

While the President is struggling with these difficulties, however, State governors in all sections are preparing to make immediate application for both relief and construction loans as soon as the new law becomes operative.

At Harrisburg, Gov. Gifford Pinchot is preparing to apply for $45,000,000, the limit available to one State under the distress relief section.

In some thirty other States, loan applications are in various stages. Michigan will ask for $11,800,000; Indiana, $8,000,000; Missouri and Utah, $2,000,000 each; Idaho, $1,500,000. Additional millions will be sought for road work and public buildings, in West Virginia, North Carolina, Georgia, Kentucky and Arkansas.

Among the first applications placed in the mail for a public-works loan was one forwarded yesterday by the Golden Gate Bridge District in California, which will seek $35,000,000 to span San Francisco Harbor with a "self-liquidating" suspension bridge.

15 Kinsmen Ask Death For Condemned Killer

Columbia, S. C., July 19 (A.P.).—A governor, accustomed to pleas from relatives of condemned men for clemency, today heard fifteen kinsmen of a man sentenced to death ask that his sentence not be interfered with.

Fifteen relatives of George Jackson, Aiken County farmer, filed into the governor's office and urged him to let Jackson, slayer of six of his relatives, go to the electric chair July 29.

Their lawyer presented a petition which he said was signed by 500 residents of Aiken County, asking that Jackson be electrocuted. He said surviving relatives would feel "uneasy" if the farmer remains alive, subject to possible further clemency.

Jackson ran amuck on a Sunday, afternoon last October and killed his two uncles, an aunt and three cousins.

POSSE TRAILS MAN WANTED IN ASSAULT

Warrenton, Va., July 19 (A.P.).—Fauquier police and citizens sought today Shadrack Thompson, former Negro convict, in an assault yesterday on a white woman, Mrs. Henry L. Baxley, and her husband.

Mrs. Baxley, who said she was positive of the Negroe's identity, told police he entered the room in which she and her husband were sleeping.

Baxley was rendered unconscious by repeated blows on the head and the woman was dragged to the foot of Rattlesnake Mountain, more than a mile from her home and assaulted.

Mrs. Baxley said she believed the man harbored a grudge against her and her husband who had once given information that resulted in Shadrack's imprisonment.

Virtually every man in the neighhood joined police in the manhunt which has continued without interruption since the crime was reported early yesterday. Bloodhounds arrived on the scene today from the Virginia State Farm and were at once put on the 30-hour old trail.

Police camps were established in the mountain wilderness, while heavily armed officers and citizens continued to patrol the neighborhood.

Commonwealth's Attorney C. W. Carter, of Fauquier, who spent most of last night with the posses, left again at midday with the bloodhounds.

Gen. Saltzman Resigns As Radio Board Head

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover yesterday received the resignation of Maj. Gen. Charles McK. Saltzman, chairman of the Radio Commission, and made known that he would accept it.

In a letter to the President, Saltzman said that he was forced to submit his resignation because of poor health and the orders of his physician. The President has given no indication when a successor to him will be appointed.

Loan for Bridge Filed in R. F. C.

Omaha Lawyer Claims First Application Under New Relief Act.

Charles B. Moriarty, Omaha, Nebr., lawyer who holds a Federal authorization to construct a toll bridge across the Missouri River at South Omaha, believes he made the first formal application for a private loan to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation following President Hoover's approval of the relief measure extending the corporation's loan powers.

Moriarty dispatched a messenger, as soon as White House approval was given to the bill, to the board's headquarters with his request for $1,600,000 to be used in the bridge construction under his franchise.

Although he asked for the specified sum, he informed the board "a somewhat lesser sum will suffice." The application is made under the provisions in the relief bill which permit loans for self-liquidating purposes.

SUMMER INQUIRIES PUT INTO LIMELIGHT

Waterway, Loan and Other Probes of Congress May Create Bombshells.

Mr. Hoover. The President said the matter was an international one until a treaty was signed and allocation of costs and benefits could be determined among the American interests prior to ratification of the treaty.

Borah Names Subcommittee.

Senator William E. Borah (Republican), of Idaho, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, yesterday named a subcommittee of seven to study the provisions of the treaty which was signed subsequent to the exchange between President Hoover and Gov. Roosevelt. Senator Borah named himself chairman of the subcommittee. Others he appointed were: Republicans, Senator Robert M. La Follette, of Wisconsin, whose State is bordered by Lakes Superior and Michigan; Arthur H. Vandenberg, of Michigan, whose State is bordered by Lakes Michigan and Huron, and Otis F. Glenn, of Illinois, in whose State is the great inland seaport of Chicago, on Lake Michigan; Democrats, Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, Democratic floor leader in the Senate, whose State is far away from the Great Lakes, but is interested in the question of inland waterway transportation, and Robert F. Wagner, of New York, whose State is bounded by Lakes Erie and Ontario and the St. Lawrence River.

Appointment of the subcommittee, Senator Borah said, was not prompted by any formal complaints, but the committee had received communications questioning the provisions of the treaty dealing with "the Chicago matter" and the general question of the amount of water which might be diverted, under the treaty by the United States.

Attacked by Brookhart.

Senator Smith W. Brookhart (Republican), of Iowa, who was defeated for the Republican nomination for another term recently, may have been singing his swan song, but he sang it in a vigorous statement criticizing provision of the treaty. The treaty, he said, not only acknowledge the jurisdiction of Canada over Lake Michigan, which heretofore has been regarded as an inland lake of the United States, but also reduces the diversion rights of this country in undue proportion to the rights acceded Canada.

The stock exchange investigation had occupied much public notice, but in the view of many who look behind the scenes, it had been supplanted as a potential bomb by the investigation of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation loans by a committee headed by Senator James Couzens (Republican), of Michigan, and the investigation of the Federal Farm Board by a committee of which Senator Charles McNary (Republican), of Oregon, is chairman.

Senator Couzens passed some time yesterday looking over the papers of the finance corporation and afterward told newspaper reporters he had found nothing wrong.

Will Name Two or Three.

Senator McNary announced he would appoint two or three investigators to look into the Farm Board activities, but especially would they look into the transactions and activities of grain and cotton exchanges.

Senator Norbeck named a subcommittee of three to plan the course of the stock exchange investigation. He named himself as head of the subcommittee, other members of which are Senators John G. Townsend, jr. (Republican), of Delaware, and Carter Glass (Democrat), of Virginia. Senator Couzens was dropped, but whether that was because of his activity on the stock exchange committee or his desire to have freedom for his Reconstruction Finance Corporation inquiry was not made especially clear.

Senator Norbeck also announced that James E. Stewart, of South Dakota, who is said to be a former bank president, but who has been present during the past sessions of the committee, will have active charge of the stock market inquiry. It marks the third time the committee publicly has changed its directing expert.

Momentarily, at least, the other inquiries are in eclipse.

Red Cross Flour Use To Get Votes Charged

(Associated Press.)

Letters charging that a political machine in Memphis was distributing flour donated to the Red Cross by the Government in return for votes were made public yesterday by Senator Borah (Republican), Idaho.

The letters, from Memphis chapters of the Loyal Order of Americans, charged that the Memphis Red Cross had turned over the flour to the "machine" headed by Representative Crump (Democrat), Tennessee, of the Tenth District, and that the unemployed could not secure the food unless they pledged themselves to vote for Crump candidates. An investigation was asked.

$200,000 Per Ton Ore Found in Nevada Mine

Goldfield, Nev., July 19 (U.P.).—Ore of the almost unbelievable value of $200,000 a ton was found today in a drift of the famous old Cumbo mine, a famed gold producer in early days.

Although mining experts said there was slight chance of a find of free gold in large quantities on the surface in that vicinity, hopeful miners immediately rushed to the region.

BENNETT WELCOMES OTTAWA DELEGATES

Leaders From All British Possessions Arrive for Economic Parley.

Ottawa, Ont., July 19 (A.P.).—From the East and from the West, political leaders who will struggle with far-reaching problems of trade and finance at the Imperial Economic Conference opening Thursday, converged today at Ottawa.

The delegates from Great Britain, India, South Africa, Rhodesia and northern Ireland arrived by train from Quebec, where they landed last night after crossing the Atlantic.

The representatives of Australia and New Zealand arrived from the West after their long trip across the Pacific and over the North American continent.

Prime Minister R. B. Bennett and virtually all members of the Canadian cabinet now in Ottawa were on hand to welcome both groups.

Most colorful among the arrivals were the representatives of India, who wore the garb of their homeland. Such turbans and robes are scarcely common sights in these parts.

The prime minister boarded the Quebec train when it came in this morning and for a few minutes conferred with Stanley Baldwin, lord president of the British council and the leader of the London delegation. There were no formal ceremonies of welcome and soon the guests were on their way to their hotel. Mrs. W. D. Herridge, wife of the Canadian Minister to Washington, was on hand to greet the London members of the incoming party.

The New Zealand delegation was headed by J. G. Coates, former premier and now minister of public works, and Stanley M. Bruce, also a former premier, led the representatives of Australia. His present post in the government is assistant treasurer.

Mr. Bruce indicated Australia was looking for an extension of her trade treaty with Canada. His nation, he explained, is primarily interested in getting markets for wool, wheat, dairy products and fruits.

Four Dogs Serve Well; Get Free License Tags

Four dogs were honored yesterday by the District Commissioners by being granted complimentary license tags, worth $2 each, because of their municipal services.

One is a white bulldog named "Al," the mascot of No. 6 Engine Company, and the second is an English Shepherd named "Buff," the pet of No. 22 Engine Company.

The other two dogs were exempted from the tax because of their value to the city refuse department as rat catchers and watch dogs. "Matt," a fox terrier, is at the Southeast street-cleaning stables, and "Jack Rags," a bulldog, is at the Southeast garbage-transfer station.

POLICE FACE CHARGE OF KILLING PRISONER

Indictments to Be Asked in Death of Stark After Third Degree.

New York, July 19 (A.P.).—Murder indictments loomed as the next step today in the investigation of Nassau County police treatment of a 30-year-old prisoner, Hyman Stark, who strangled to death from a broken larynx after eight hours of questioning about an attack on a detective's mother.

"The men who killed Stark are no less murderers because they are officers," declared District Attorney Elvin N. Edwards at Mineola.

Edwards said all is in readiness to call the grand jury and ask return of indictments charging murder in the second degree, manslaughter and failure of policemen to do their duty.

This action awaits the report tomorrow of Justice Meier Steinbrink, who presided at an open John Doe hearing yesterday, and declared the mass of testimony of police and detectives "obviously contained perjury."

This was being sifted today to fixing responsibility for Stark's death. Thirteen policemen, suspended from service, awaited the outcome of the probe.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Fannie Tropp, sister of Stark, or Nathan Hacker, as he was also known, filed in Surrogate's Court here today an application for letters of administration in her brother's estate. She will sue Nassau County for $100,000 damages for his death, it was said.

Stark's three fellow prisoners, Alexander Drangel, Isse Stein, also known as Alexander Feldman, and Philip Cecala, yesterday singled out eight detectives and two patrolmen who, they said, beat them with rubber hose, a heavy ledger and a shoe.

300 Railroad Box Cars Burned.

Chattanooga, Tenn., July 19 (A.P.).—Three hundred box cars were destroyed or damaged by fire in the Southern Railway yards here early today. Firemen battled the flames seven hours before bringing them under control. The cause of the fire has not been determined.

AUDITOR WITHHOLDS TOTAL IN SHORTAGES

Andrews and Denny Confer With Douglas on Cases in Arlington.

The total shortage in the accounts of the three indicted former Arlington County officers, E. Wade Ball, county treasurer; William H. Duncan, county clerk, and F. J. Hallock, clerk to the county school board, was not revealed yesterday by State Auditor T. Coleman Andrews, after he had conferred with subordinates who have been checking the accounts.

However, Mr. Andrews would not deny the statement of Lyman M. Kelley, member of the county board, that the shortages would be more than $600,000. It is understood that completion of the audit of Duncan's account shows a shortage of nearly $90,000, and that of Hallock $6,250. This indicates the shortage in Ball's accounts will reach more than $500,000.

Another visitor to the county yesterday was Collins Denny, jr., assistant attorney of the State. He and Mr. Andrews conferred at length with Commonwealth's Attorney Lawrence W. Douglas. They will confer further today.

Mr. Denny will cooperate with the Commonwealth's attorney in preparing the cases against the three men. Judge Walter T. McCarthy has set Ball's trial for August 15 and Duncan's for August 22.

Lord Lytton, Ill, Taken Off Ship on Stretcher

Tsingtao, China, July 19 (A.P.).—Lord Lytton, head of the League of Nations commission investigating conditions in the Far East, was carried ashore on a stretcher when the ship taking the commission from Japan to Peiping arrived here today.

At the British consulate it was said he had an intestinal chill and was running a slight fever. He left tonight with his colleagues, but at Tsinanfu he will leave the party and go on by airplane to Peiping to enter the Rockefeller Hospital. Lord Lytton is 56 years old.

Mellon Leaves London Today for Trip Here

London, July 19 (A.P.).—Ambassador Andrew W. Mellon said today he would leave for New York tomorrow on the steamer Majestic to spend several weeks on an unofficial visit. His son, Paul, will accompany him.

Mr. Mellon said nothing but personal affairs took him back to the United States and that he did not contemplate engaging in any political activity. He said he had promised his son he would go back with him if he could and since official business was dull at this time he was doing so.

CURTIS WOULD BEGIN NEW KIDNAPER HUNT

Attorney Says Shipbuilder Is Still Convinced He Can Get Results.

Flemington, N. J., July 19 (A.P.).—Eagerness to make a renewed search for the Lindbergh baby's kidnapers was attributed today to John Hughes Curtis, who was convicted of obstructing the hunt.

The announcement was made by Lloyd Fisher, the Virginia boat builder's attorney, as he made plans for a fight to set aside the verdict of a year's imprisonment and $1,000 fine against his client.

He represented Curtis as "anxious to bring about the kidnapers' apprehension," pointed out that Curtis had repeatedly repudiated an alleged confession that all his previous work on the case was part of a hoax.

"Curtis is willing to pick up his old clews again," Fisher said. "He has no animosity toward Col. Lindbergh. He still feels very kindly toward him.

"His only criticism is of the State police and their mismanagement of the case."

The only thing holding the shipbuilder from renewed activity in the hunt, Fisher said, was lack of funds.

"If Curtis is supplied with money, he will undertake the search immediately," the lawyer declared.

While this announcement was being made, Curtis himself returned to Norfolk, Va., to assist friends in raising funds for an appeal of his sentence. He is at liberty on $10,000 bail, furnished unexpectedly yesterday.

As he was reunited with his wife, whom he had not seen since he left Norfolk on May 7 with Col. Lindbergh, Curtis appeared cheerful, but showed the effects of his months of confinement.

Miss Kalep, 26, has flown for two years and has 860 hours in the air to her credit—20 hours of it blind flying

OVER RADIO FOOTBALL.

(Radio broadcasting companies have proposed to Eastern colleges that they pay a substantial sum for the right to broadcast football games this fall, but with the stipulation that such broadcasts have an advertising sponsor.)

"GOOD afternoon, ladies and gentlemen. You are about to listen to a presentation of the Yale-Harvard football game, which will come to you today under the auspices of the Peerless Hair Oil Corporation, maker of the world's finest hair tonics. "There it goes! . . . Dimmitt, one of the best Yale quarterbacks presented in this interesting radio series, sent a beautiful kick down the field. . . . It is caught by Doakes, a splendid end, who is a newcomer to the radio audience, but who, it is predicted, will become one of the foremost radio personalities.

"Oh, boy! . . . It's a touchdown. . . . No! . . . Just a minute. . . . The ball is called back. . . . Somebody is hurt. . . . Zoomer is being taken out. . . . I can't make out just who is being sent in to replace him. . . . Just a minute!

"I think it is Morton Downey, folks. . . . Yes, Morton Downey is going in for Yale! . . . Kate Smith is warming up on the sidelines.

"During the intermission you will be entertained by those great stars who have become such a feature of all intercollegiate gridiron epics . . . the Boswell Sisters! . . . And don't forget next week Peerless Hair Oil brings you Notre Dame-Army, with Ben Bernie conducting!"

Pace has announced on several occasions that he will attempt a picket; but each time changed his plans. However, extra police will be on hand to circumvent his plans.

Butler Praises Members.

Gen. Butler, accompanied by his 23-year-old son, Smedley, jr., was escorted to Camp Marks, by Commander in Chief Waters and his staff.

Gen. Butler realized there was no microphone in front of him last night and that he could not be shut off for picturesque language. His speech was studded with healthy "hells" and a "damn" or two.

"Men," he boomed, "I ran for the Senate in Pennsylvania on a bonus ticket. I got hell beat out of me, but I haven't changed my mind a damned bit.

"I'm here because I've been a soldier for 35 years and I can't resist the temptation to be among soldiers. Every man who has worn this country's uniform and slept in mud in it ought to stick together.

Tells Veterans to "Lick" Foes.

"I would walk across the country to associate with soldiers and soldiers you certainly are. You are the best-behaved segment of society in America today. You are as well disciplined as any army," the general declared.

"No one can kick men around any more," he yelled. "All of us Americans have been going around with rings in our noses, but now is the time to stop.

"If you go home," he continued, "keep your leaders here to look out for your interests, and when you get home to the polls in November lick the hell out of those who are against you. You know who they are."

It was time, he insisted, to change the position of the soldier who bled in war time and suffered in peace time.

"You can change it," he exclaimed. "There is a simple method provided in November this year through the God-given system of government we have. Now, go to it."

From a platform in the field, he urged the men "to stick together." "People are saying you are tramps," he said. "They didn't call you that in 1917. I have never seen such fine soldiers as you are. Furthermore, you have as much right to have a lobby here as the U. S. Steel Corporation.

"Those of you who go home, make sure that you use your votes to defeat your enemies. But the minute that you haul down your camp flag this movement will evaporate. See that your camp paper gets to the people back home. It is the only people back home."

The general spent the night mingling with the soldiers and slept last night in the camp. He will make another address to the men at 9 o'clock this morning.

Ledoux Asks Special Session.

Urbain Ledoux, who was arrested Saturday night at the White House demonstration, visited the Executive Mansion again yesterday. He presented a petition to Theodore Joslin, one of the President's secretaries, asking that the President call a special session of Congress to pass bonus legislation for needy veterans.

If the call is not made within 24 hours, he said, he would personally picket the White House.

The food situation became acute yesterday and Gen. Glassford dug into his pocket for $238 with which he bought food for the veterans. This was the last help they might expect from him, he said, except that he might do something in individual cases to prevent actual hunger.

The attempt by Waters to penalize those veterans who refuse to recognize him as their leader by withholding food brought emphatic protests from Gen. Glassford. He threatened to establish a commissary to distribute Red Cross wheat and flour unless Waters rescinded his order. Waters yielded.

Mileage "Racket" Revealed.

Gen. Hines yesterday replied to published reports that a "racket" existed among the veterans in getting a mileage allowance and subsistence to their home and then pocketing the money and remaining in the District. "Very little actual abuse of the loan privilege has been shown to exist," he said.

A score of women, wives of newly-arrived bonus marchers, were ejected last night from vacant property at 311-315 C street northwest, which belongs to the District Government, according to bonus leaders.

The women, with a dozen children, had taken possession of the premises with their husbands after an appeal to the District Commissioners that they be allowed to occupy the place had been refused.

Late last night it was not known where the women would remain for the night. Three of the women put out of the building were expectant mothers, it was learned.

The property which the Commissioner refused to turn over as a lodging place was formerly a Y. W. C. A. building. Soon after the marchers had taken possession a police detail arrived and requested them to leave or "they would be put out," they said.

Two Radicals Beaten.

Two members of the radical wing of the army were beaten by veterans yesterday as they attempted to distribute circulars calling for a picket of the White House to take place this morning. Those beaten were Joseph Drobnich, of Detroit, and Noah Baudoin, of Abbeville, La.

A committee appeared at headquarters and protested against the beating. Police went with the assault victims to the vicinity of the B. E. F. committee headquarters, where the beating took place, but the victims were unable to point out their assailants.

A group of 100 veterans who are "squatting" on private property at 341 Twenty-second street northwest may be evicted today, if police establish that they are on the site without permission of the owner.

Copies of a resolution passed by the Anacostia Citizens Association, protesting against the menace to the health of that section by the insanitary conditions in Camp Marks, will be distributed at the camp today by orders of Gen. Glassford.

Commander Waters announced last night that all future donations of food and money would be asked in the name of the B. E. F., and that neither the outfit under the command of Roy Robertson, of California, nor that led by John Pace, would share in them. He said that any who wished to share food from the B. E. F. commissary must join his forces. Waters suggested that Red Cross donations of food be delivered directly to Pace or Robertson.

a change of heart and wanted him prosecuted.

He said the district attorney told him if he would enter a guilty plea he would see to it that he was released in fourteen months. He was made a trusty shortly after his arrival at the penitentiary and after fourteen months had passed and he heard nothing about a parole, he used his freedom as a trusty and walked out, police said he told them.

Murphy said he had had no fixed address in his eleven years of freedom, but had spent his time roaming from town to town. He came here from New York, he said.

Gov. Erickson Leading In Montana Balloting

Helena, Mont., July 19 (A.P.).—In the first eleven precincts to record totals for today's primary election in Montana, Gov. J. E. Erickson polled more votes for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination than his three opponents combined, or 462 to 361.

Frank A. Hazelbaker, lieutenant governor, had in the same number of precincts 651 votes to 275 for W. S. McCormack, his only opponent for the Republican nomination. The vote was largely that of city precincts.

MEXICO TO OPERATE RAILROAD IN STRIKE

Southern Pacific Is Taken Over; Street Car Men Ordered Back to Jobs.

Mexico City, July 19 (A.P.).—President Ortiz Rubio today ordered the department of communications to operate the Southern Pacific Railroad of Mexico, which has been tied up by a strike for nearly a month. He said a state of public emergency existed in the States served by the road.

Almost simultaneously the federal board of arbitration gave striking street car men in Mexico City 24 hours to get back to work or forfeit their jobs after ruling that their walkout was illegal. Tonight street car service had been resumed throughout the city.

Strike leaders protested strongly against the board's ruling, but no violence occurred. The street car strike began June 25 and the railway strike June 27.

In his orders to the communications department, the president declared it was to the public interest that service be resumed because of a "public" emergency in Sonora, Sinaloa and Nayarit.

Government operation, it was said, would not affect the status of the strike or the workers' or company's rights, which remained in the hands of the board of arbitration. It was understood federal operation would continue until the board had ruled on the legality and justification of the railroad strike. There was no indication when this would come.

Wrecked Plane Found in Jungle.

San Geronimo, Mexico, July 18 (A.P.).—Dr. A. R. Goodman, American tropical specialist, arrived today by airplane from Mexico City to attend Clarence L. McElroy, American survivor of an airplane crash in the Oaxaca jungle June 27. McElroy was still semidelirious today. The body of Roy Gordon, McElroy's companion, and the wreckage of the plane in which they crashed have been found in the jungle near San Geronimo.

Expropriation Law May End.

Mexico City, July 19 (U.P.).—The famous expropriation law of the State of Hidalgo will be annuled soon after the Legislature convenes September 15, Senator Matias Rodriguez, of Hidalgo, declared in an interview published by Excelsior. The law recently was declared unconstitutional by District Judge Florencio Araizu of Pachuca in granting an injunction against its application to the French-owned Cruz Azul Cement Co.

Jade Found in Urns.

Mexico City, July 19 (U.P.).—A revision of some of the current theories regarding Mexico's ancient inhabitants may be necessary as a result of the discovery of stone urns containing unusual jade objects. The urns were found by a peasant working the Pedregal lava flow not far from here. Government archeologists were unwilling to express a definite opinion regarding the objects pending further examination.

Peru Suppresses Rebellion.

The slight, militant president of Peru, Luis M. Sanchez-Cerro, announced the suppression of a series of rebellions alleged to have been fomented by Apristas (oppositionists) and Communists. At Huaraz two rebel leaders and 25 men were captured. The president plans to purchase more airplanes to maintain order.

A mysterious band called "The Five," threatened death to President-elect Neptali Bonifaz in Ecuador, charging him with being a Peruvian citizen, which he denied.

(Associated Press.)

A note signed by representatives of the five neutral countries whose good offices had been invoked to settle the Chaco dispute between Bolivia and Paraguay was sent yesterday to the Paraguayan government requesting the reconsideration of its decision to recall the Paraguayan delegates from Washington.

The note stated the neutrals' regret over the departure of the Paraguayan delegates, and noted satisfaction of Paraguay's willingness to listen to advice of the neutrals.

Countries Ready to Arbitrate.

Bolivia, it said, placed itself in the hands of the neutrals in the matter and asked that Paraguay do likewise.

The State Department yesterday confirmed reports that the United States had extended its good offices to mediate between Argentina and Uruguay in an effort to renew diplomatic relations which were severed by those countries last week.

It was further added the United States offer had been accepted by the two governments, but the basis of mediation had not yet been announced.

MINISTER DIES

REV. H. T. STEVENSON.

REV. H. T. STEVENSON FALLS DEAD CHATTING

Pastor of Bethany Baptist Was 63; Served Church for 25 Years.

The Rev. Hugh T. Stevenson, pastor of Bethany Baptist Church, fell dead about 8:30 p. m. yesterday as he chatted with friends in a lunchroom at 1031 North Capitol street.

Dr. Stevenson, it was learned, suffered a heart attack at 7 p. m. while in his study, but despite this, carried out an original plan of visiting a number of friends, and telephoned W. R. Allen, of 2020 Q street northwest, deacon of the church, to drive him.

After the visits Dr. Stevenson and Mr. Allen went to the lunchroom, owned by Charles Boutsele, a friend of Dr. Stevenson.

While in the lunchroom the minister telephoned Dr. Vernon T. Atkinson, of 516 A street northeast, for an appointment. Dr. Stevenson was bidding Mr. Boutsele good-by when he gasped and fell to the floor. The rescue squad and ambulances from Casualty and Emergency Hospitals responded, but Dr. Stevenson had expired before first aid could be administered. He was pronounced dead by Dr. A. Magruder MacDonald, acting coroner.

Dr. Stevenson was noted for his philanthropic and social work. He had been in poor health for some time and had been advised to go to Europe this summer to take a treatment, but refused because he felt his presence was demanded in his home city.

Prominent in Masonic circles, Dr. Stevenson was a member of Pentalpha Lodge, chaplain of Almas Temple, a member of the Scottish Rite and past grand chaplain of the Grand Lodge of Masons. He represented the Masonic order overseas during the war.

Dr. Stevenson had been pastor of the Bethany Church for 25 years. He was born in New York State 63 years ago. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Etta Stevenson, and two sons, Horace L. Stevenson, of Chevy Chase, and Perry Stevenson, former trade commissioner for the United States Government in Johannesburg, South Africa, and now representative of the White Motor Co., in that city.

She has just broken the world's record for combined milk and butter production at Femco Farms, with a yearly output of 35,626 pounds of milk—about nine times that of the average cow—and 1,483 pounds of butter. She gives 50 quarts of milk a day. She has no dainty appetite, consuming about 94 pounds of feed and 25 gallons of water a day. She weighs nearly 1900 pounds.

FATAL UNION CLASH CALLS OUT MILITIA

Man Killed, 3 Critically Hurt as Bullets Fly Over Open-Shop Job.

Marseilles, Ill., July 19 (A.P.).—One man was killed today, three were injured critically, and a score of others bruised, beaten or slightly wounded as union and nonunion workers fought with shotguns, clubs and fists at an Illinois waterway dam under construction here.

Contracting company officials said the trouble grew out of attempts by union men to unionize workers already employed on the "open shop" job. The union workers, of whom the man killed was one, denied the charge and insisted they went to the dam, peaceably and unarmed, to seek work.

A company of State militia from Ottawa, Ill., was standing by tonight, special deputy sheriffs had been sworn in and a State highway patrolman was watching proceedings. Local authorities said, however, the situation was "tempor a lriyunedornc m tion was "temporarily under control" and no help was needed.

The actual battle broke out when a mob of 200 or more attempted to drag W. H. Miller, superintendent on the job, from his automobile as he approached the dam at noon. Union men said they wanted to confer with Miller and meant no harm.

One hundred twenty-eight workman—all of whom were questioned tonight—then were said to have attacked union men charging from behind a barricade of barbed wire protecting the workings. Some of them fired shotguns, and the union men fought back.

Officials of the contracting companies said there was no wage dispute on the job and that both organized and nonunion workers were employed, at the companies' own wage scale. Representatives of the union men insisted that members of their delegation fired no shots.

The trouble came as a climax to rumblings of controversy for several weeks between workmen on State projects, but there had been no previous violence on Federal jobs. The Marseilles Dam is being built by construction firms on contract from the Government.

BIDDING FREAK HOLDINGS.

FREAK holdings are a law unto themselves, and it is difficult, indeed, to lay down rules that can be rigidly followed when freak meets freak in the mental play that is known as bidding.

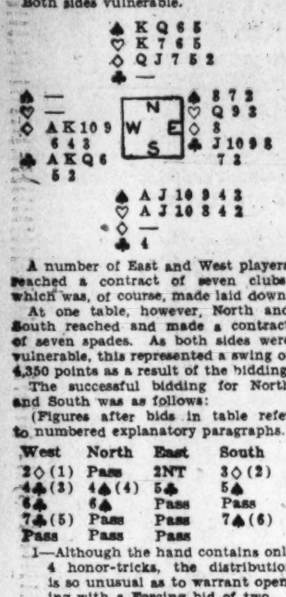
West—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.



A number of East and West players reached a contract of seven clubs, which was, of course, made laid down.

At one table, however, North and South reached and made a contract of seven spades. As both sides were vulnerable, this represented a swing of 4,350 points as a result of the bidding.

The successful bidding for North and South was as follows:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

West	North	East	South
2◇(1)	Pass	2NT	3◇(2)
4♣(3)	4♠(4)	5♣	5♠
6♣	6♠	Pass	Pass
7♣(5)	Pass	Pass	7♠(6)
Pass	Pass	Pass

1—Although the hand contains only 4 honor-tricks, the distribution is so unusual as to warrant opening with a Forcing bid of two.

2—A most unusual bid, forcing partner to keep the bidding open after opponents have opened with an Opening bid of two in a suit.

3—While West might double South's three diamond bid, it would be an empty gesture. He, therefore, discloses his second strong suit.

4—North has a really strong hand opposite his partner's extremely strong bid. To pass would be only the counsel of timidity.

5—West feels reasonably sure that he can make seven clubs. He does not feel certain that he can defeat six spades. In any event, the slight risk of losing the Grand Slam is to be preferred to the possibility, by no means remote with West's freakish hand, that North and South may make a Small Slam in spades.

6—South, warned by his own extremely freakish distribution, is far from certain that his two Aces will produce 1 trick with which to set the Grand Slam contract. In view of partner's free bid, he reasons that, at worst, he should be down 2 tricks—a small price to pay for preventing a vulnerable Grand Slam.

In the play, seven spades of course were made, as South did not make the mistake of laying down the Ace of hearts.

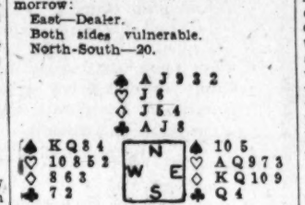
TODAY'S POINTER.

Hard and fast rules cannot be laid down regarding the bidding of freak holdings in the Slam zone. When the early stages of bidding, however, have disclosed extremely freakish holdings, the defending players should be wary of doubling.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

The bidding and play of the hand shown below will be discussed tomorrow:

East—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.
North-South—20.



Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it, and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

Color individuality is expressed in a nile green triple georgette frock worn with black hat, bag, belt and shoes, and white gloves.

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., July 19.—Real individuality is possible through colors!

And I rather fear that it is possible in no other way—that is good taste. For the standards of elegance of the day are just the least bit confining—don't you think? What I mean is, that hats are tipped at a certain angle, skirts of a certain length, waists of another—and the woman who would prefer a tightly wrapped turban set low or high on the forehead is in danger of looking the least bit "odd" if she indulges in this type of hat.

But colors!

Well, Miladi Elegante can be quite modish, yet strikingly individual, in her colors. For instance, that bright green that is so much the summer mode here in Hollywood where I am "Olympicking" at the moment; well, what would you think if you saw a stunning blonde dressed in a simple sports dress of this color—wearing purple gloves and a purple necklace? For the rest, all green save her nude arms and nude stockings.

Schiaparelli and Mary Nowitsky are famed for startling color harmonies like this. The latter expresses her taste mainly in negligees and bathing togs, the former in ultra chic sportswear. Both can combine the most unusual colors in the most startling and effective manner! And the wise, wise woman who realizes the limitations imposed upon her by good taste, studies the possibilities in color combinations, and affects them.

Here are some formulas, shall we call them? Cerise and vivid blue. Green and purple. Orange and purple. Yellow and red. Yellow and gray.

• • • • •

And speaking of individuality! There is sketched a sleeve arrangement that can be worn with any sleeveless or short sleeved frock—being bolero in effect. And a bag matching. Yes, Clever Fingers can make it herself!

• • • • •

And to show you what I mean about real individuality being possible in colors, I have sketched a green tripie georgette frock that I chose to wear afternoons in this city of sun and sportswear and what, what have you! But as a compromise to the elegance of afternoon wear as I know it, and the prevalence of sportswear as it is worn here—I choose to wear with this frock three-quarter length white gloves, black crepe opera pumps, carry a black bag and wear a small black grosgrain hat. And, oh yes, a narrow black suede belt. For a dash into the Biltmore for tea—one has to be dressed as for any afternoon in any big city—and this outfit serves. For a dash out to the games of the afternoon, one must be in summer clothes and sportswear in effect. Well, one has no time to change between games and tea—even between games and dinner. So, this outfit has proved foolproof and perfect, and individual, if I do say so meself-what-wears-it.

• • • • •

Extra! Extra! Extra! The prize for economy has been awarded to the Dah-ray herself!

For her beach dress that can go near the water—which costs 10 cents!

Send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the leaflet which tells you how to make a beach dress out of two bandanna handkerchiefs. One you can wear at any beach, and one that is chic and cunning, too. You simply can't believe it until you see it, of course—but seeing is believing, and I wear one myself, honestly. Hurry!

Au revoir.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

BEWARE OF TOO MUCH SALT.

A GENTLEMAN relates this experience: When he was a child he had enuresis. It continued long beyond the time when other children succeed in breaking the habit. This was one case in which a strong desire to be freed was not enough to break off the old and establish a new habit

When the prepubertal age of rapid growth was reached, the boy developed an albuminuria. This continued for several years, occasioned his family great uneasiness, and resulted in treatment at the hands of many physicians. At first it was thought the trouble was one of the forms of Bright's disease, but finally it was decided that it was an albuminuria of the type called adolescent and sometimes orthostatic. When this diagnosis was first arrived at the trend of opinion was that it was a rather serious disease, not so much because of immediate danger, but because statistics showed that a considerable proportion of those who had it eventually succumbed to the better known types of Bright's.

In the course of his wanderings among medical men, this gentleman came under the care of a physician who had had some experience in treating similar cases by diet. He was put in a hospital, and as soon as he had become adjusted a salt-free diet was given him. In a fairly short time he was free from symptoms, and after that his diet was not quite so rigorous.

That was ten or more years ago, and during the interval he has been free from all symptoms in any way related to his original trouble. He works long hours at a job that keeps his attention tense. When occasion offers he plays golf and indulges in other athletic sports.

The impression he gives is one of vigor, strength and good health, although he may be a trifle on edge. He lives exclusively on a low salt diet, and, in fact, has lost all taste for foods to which salt has been added as a condiment. His butter is unsalted, and when he indulges in melon he makes no use of the salt cellar. He eats no salted fish, ham, bacon, corned beef, nor any other salted meats. The cook has instructions not to salt his vegetables, and on his salads salt-free dressings are used. He eats unsalted breads, crackers and eggs. However, no effort is made to rid meats and vegetables of the salt that they naturally contain. Since he has acquired new tastes he has no desire for the salt substitutes now available.

PRENATAL INFLUENCE.

A. H. V. writes: In reference to your recent article on prenatal influences, I have a notion that the moods of a mother after conception are reflected in the character and mentality of the child. If the mother gives way, for instance, to morbid day dreams during pregnancy the child will tend to be a morbid and dreamy creature. If she gives way to temper or to worry the child is psychologically tainted accordingly.

2. I have another notion that poisons, such as pus from infected teeth, do mark children to be ugly, or maybe predispose them to convulsions. &c.

3. Re the ever-green question of defective teeth, I have a notion that the cause of half the trouble is too small a jaw for the number of teeth and nondevelopment of the teeth through lack of exercise on hard foods. Give the infant hard food and extract the front teeth just behind the eye teeth as soon as they appear and the teeth would last twice as long.

REPLY.

I have a notion that you are a pretty good notion hatcher. Suspend your notion hatching until you have accumulated more information.

1. A child is likely to inherit his disposition and personality from either parent. That has nothing to do with prenatal influences. It is a matter of inheritance. There is a pretty considerable literature on both of these subjects.

2. Nothing to this notion either.

3. There is considerable basis for this notion, though your program of tooth pulling would need modification.

MILK OF THE WILD JUNIPER.

A. M. M. writes: I have been troubled with dropsy for some time. A friend of mine suggested I take a small dose of liquor made from juniper berries every day. Is liquor harmful in this case? Is there any cure for it?

REPLY.

Dropsy is a symptom. It may be caused by heart disease, Bright's disease, cirrhosis of the liver, with one or two other possibilities. There are powerful drugs that remove the excess water from the tissues, but what a person with dropsy needs is treatment for the disease rather than the symptom. Since drinking gin causes some dropsy there is little chance that it will cure it.

PROBABLY NOT CANCER.

E. B. writes that for several months he has had a dark line, the size of a pin, and one-fourth as long, on his upper lip. It is not growing and it is not sore. He wants to know if it is cancer.

REPLY.

Nothing in your description suggests cancer.

IT'S ALL IN THE SHOES.

Gladys writes: What can be done to prevent corns? I never had corns until lately and now I am getting several on the tops of my toes. Thought perhaps my shoes were too small, so I bought a size larger than I usually wear, but this has not helped.

REPLY.

Why not wear even larger shoes? Corns result from rubbing. Wearing shoes that do not rub will prevent this. It is also the only cure. However, time is required for cure. A disorder caused by twenty years of wrong practice can not be cured in twenty days of good practice. Going barefoot on the beach may yet bring about the wearing of properly fitted shoes. After the women get pretty feet my slower sex may become interested in their own gnarled members.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

SKIN MARRED BY PIMPLES AND ERUPTIONS IS A SAD SIGHT IN THE SUN.

SHE signs her self "despondent" and her letter is so typical of hundreds received recently, that it is worth quoting:

"Dear Miss Pierce: What are we young people afflicted with pimples and eruptions to do. In the winter, we are out of the picture, stay home from parties or if we go, suffer all sorts of tortures and imagine that everyone looking at us is looking down because of our troubled skin. And in the summer, at the beach, try to be carefree! How can you, knowing that the sun is showing up every tiny mark. So we stay home some more, and the more we stay home the more we think of others out and having a good time, and let me tell you the depression the world is going through has nothing on the deep-down-in-the-dumps of depression feeling that we experience. Please tell me how to cure a case of pimples quickly, or at least make these disfiguring marks look less noticeable. DESPONDENT."

• • • • •

Pathetic, isn't it? All the more pitiful because it is so true. But I have a word of encouragement for Despondent and all who like her feel that the fates have cheated them.

Treatment.

There are several treatments, external treatments I mean, that have proved very helpful. Invariably, these treatments start with thorough cleansing, deep, penetrating cleansing of every pore. Then comes stimulation in the form of a lotion or a circulation cream. Then a soothing and antiseptic cream. This is best applied at night before retiring. The better preparations really contain clearing and healing ingredients. The cream may be left on overnight. Some of these creams are brown in color and caution should be taken to avoid their rubbing on to the bedding. The morning treatment consists of cleansing and toning repeated. And here's the good news! There is an acne lotion on the market that is remarkable and answers the two-fold need. It actually does the work of healing the skin while it is on and in addition serves as a delightful finishing lotion and base for powder, temporarily conceals the blemishes and gives the skin a more wholesome look, even in the sun. So cheer up "Despondent."

Health and Inner Cleanliness Most Important.

I have described the outer treatment first by way of encouraging those afflicted with blemishes. But actually, the treatment must begin from within. Inner health and cleanliness are of utmost importance. The most effective preparations that have ever been compounded can not combat the devastating influence of constipation, improper diet, or unhygienic living. To start right, check up on your general health. Have your physician examine you thoroughly, if necessary. Make sure you are observing all the health rules. After that, treatment is comparatively simple.

My Acne Bulletins, including diet, exercises and health rules will be sent on receipt of a stamped, return envelope.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"CANCER."

IF July 20 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:10 a. m. to 9:30 a. m., from 1:50 p. m. to 3 p. m. and from 7:45 p. m. to 9 p. m. The danger periods are from 10:50 a. m. to noon and from 6 p. m. to 7:15 p. m.

Breakers will be encountered on the sea of life on July 20, which will call for resourcefulness and courage. Most difficulties will be of a personal nature, and will require personal supervision and secret thought. Sentiment, for the time being, had better be discarded for the sake of present and material needs.

Children born on this July 20 will have three factors in their make-ups to which most of their future success may be attributed: The power to concentrate, an optimistic disposition and definite ambitions. They will be enthusiastic without being too visionary. Their later life should be a happy fulfillment of the promises of their youth.

You are, if born on July 20, fortunately, receptive insofar as new ideas are concerned. In spite of your regard for tradition and without any lack of respect for established customs, you, when faced with difficulties, do not hesitate to discard that which you deem to be useless, and not only embrace, but hug modern and up-to-date methods. If the same resourcefulness that characterizes your actions in time of stress were called upon when favorable conditions prevail, your material success would be doubly assured. Your "penchant" is apparently to wring success out of comparative failure, rather than to continue and add further luster to an accomplishment.

Impulsiveness is one of your weaknesses, and though at times a quick impulse has served a useful purpose, yet at other times it has left you "high and dry" to speculate on what might have been. You, too, are easily dazzled by appearances. Time and time again, you pin your faith to one whose only passport to your confidence is a smart "get-up" and a glib tongue. "All that glitters is not gold," and gold does not always glitter.

Your disposition is somewhat fickle, and you are liable to become a victim of infatuation. This particularly applies to women born on July 20. When, however, you do settle and run in double harness, you will do your utmost to keep step with your mate and keep up your end of it.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

STUFFED STEAK.

(Bureau of Home Economics.)

Among the less tender, and therefore less expensive cuts of beef, which are best cooked slowly, are flank steak and either top or bottom round. A savory stuffing adds new flavor, making a stuffed and braised flank or round an interesting variation from the more usual ways of serving these cuts. If a part is left over, it will be good sliced cold.

Flank steaks vary in weight. The larger the flank steak the better for stuffing. Do not let the butcher score a flank steak that is to be stuffed. Roll it from the side, not the end, so that the meat will be cut across the grain in carving.

In selecting round steak for stuffing and braising, see that it is cut from the portion where muscles are large and relatively few in number. It is best when cut one-half inch to three-fourths inch thick. The stuffing given below by the Bureau of Home Economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture will be equally good for either round or flank steak.

Stuffed Flank Steak.

A flank steak
1½ cups stale bread crumbs
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 onion, minced
½ cup chopped celery
2 tablespoons butter or beef drippings

Wipe the meat with a damp cloth. For the stuffing, brown the celery and the onion lightly in the fat and combine with the other ingredients. Spread the stuffing over the steak. Beginning at one side of the steak, roll it up like a jelly roll and tie securely in several places with clean string. Sear in a small quantity of fat in a heavy skillet or a baking pan on top of the stove, and turn the meat frequently until browned on all sides. Slip a rack under the meat in the pan, cover closely, and cook in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 1½ hours, or until tender. When the meat is done, remove from the pan and prepare gravy as follows: Drain off the fat. For each cup of gravy wanted, measure 2 tablespoons of fat and return to the pan, add 1½ to 2 tablespoons of flour and stir until well blended and slightly browned. Then add 1 cup of cold water or milk and stir until smooth. Season with salt and pepper. Serve the stuffed steak with browned potatoes.

WIFE OF ROOSEVELT DRY, BUT FOR REPEAL

Organization Work Program Is Laid Before Governor by Farley.

Albany, N. Y., July 19 (A.P.).—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the Democratic presidential candidate, who said she always had been a "personal dry," today agreed with her husband and the Democratic platform that the eighteenth amendment should be repealed and liquor control returned to the States.

Mrs. Roosevelt's statement, provoked by a report that she had refused to sign a membership card in an antiprohibition organization, was issued about the time the governor was completing plans for his campaign. James A. Farley, national chairman, and Louis M. Howe, political secretary to Roosevelt, laid a program of organization work before Mr. Roosevelt.

Within a few days a national treasurer will be named, general headquarters opened in New York and regional headquarters in Chicago and probably the Pacific Coast.

Mrs. Roosevelt established her place in the prohibition controversy in a statement of 87 words. It read:

"I am and always have been a 'personal dry.' I do not believe, however, that the eighteenth amendment has worked at all successfully and I favor its repeal, permitting the States to pass what laws they deem necessary. In the event of this happening, I shall always be on the side of those working for real temperance."

Mr. Roosevelt maintained today his silence of yesterday on the Canada-United States St. Lawrence waterways treaty which was signed yesterday.

It is known that he considers the Federal Government snubbed New York State, which is interested in hydroelectric development of the international river.

Tunney Says Republican Prosperity Is "Hokum"

Columbia, Conn., July 19 (A.P.).—Gene Tunney, making his debut in the political ring as a Democratic campaigner, took some verbal thrusts today at "Republican prosperity" and declared organization is the fundamental need in winning interparty battles.

"Only because of its organization has the Republican party been so successful in the past in carrying national elections. Probably the slogan about the Republicans and prosperity going hand in hand had something to do with it, but that is hokum," said the retired boxing champion.

deficiencies," he said in a formal statement.

His attention, he said, had been called to reports that Government officials "were somewhat hesitant about effecting the reductions carried in the various appropriation bills" in the hope a supplementary deficiency measures would be passed in December.

At the same time, Senator Kenneth McKellar (Democrat), of Tennessee, a member of the special economy committee, opened fire on Jones' estimates of appropriation savings as "misleading." He deviated to assail alleged inequalities in the furlough plan.

Instead of saving $1,139,863,613 under the last fiscal year, as the appropriations committee report indicated, McKellar charged $3,978,304,659 more was appropriated at this session of Congress than last. Declaring it "impossible to compare appropriations for the fiscal year 1932 with appropriations for the fiscal year 1933, when the fiscal year 1933 is just sixteen days old," he charged "an effort to juggle the figures." The only real saving, he said, was the $334,294,094 Congress cut under budget figures. It was announced later at the White House that President Hoover has asked the Budget Bureau to prepare an accurate statement of appropriation savings, allowing for those items which must be made up in deficiencies.

The Tennessee senator turned viciously on the furlough plan:

"It is unfair, unjust, unequal and gives rise to what may be the greatest possible favoritism in Government. Already employes are protesting against favoritism shown by bureau chiefs in the granting of furloughs."

He said workers who formerly favored the plan have reversed their stand.

"It is so confused, in fact, that nobody knows exactly what it means. Executive officers of the Government have been trying to interpret it ever since it was enacted, but no two interpret it alike. It is applicable to some departments and inapplicable to others. I feel sorry for the employes of the Government who will have to live under it for a whole year."

Another repercussion from the economy act came yesterday in the resignation of Chairman Charles McK. Saltzman of the Federal Radio Commission. He gave health as a reason, but intimates point out that under the economy act he must choose between his salary as head of the commission and his pay as a retired Army general. His combined pay from both sources formerly amounted to $16,000, $6,000 from the Army and $10,000 as Radio Commission chairman.

One class of workers who actually may benefit from the act was uncovered yesterday. Officials of the United States Engineers' Office figured some per diem workers actually will make $1.80 more a week than formerly. These workers, it was explained, were placed on a five-day week, but ordered paid on the old five-and-a-half-day scale.

Secretary of Labor Doak yesterday delayed his decision on the five-day week. His department is the last giving serious consideration to general application of the plan. He indicated an announcement would be made tomorrow.

Garner Prepares For Fishing Trip

Speaker at His Texas Home Rises Early for Canter About Ranch.

Uvalde, Tex., July 19 (A.P.).—Speaker John Nance Garner turned out at sunup today for horseback rides through the brush cattle ranges around Uvalde, then cantered home to putter with tackle he intends using on a fishing trip soon.

Meantime, Mrs. Garner, who acts as his secretary, spent a busy day answering the many telegrams which followed him home from Washington.

"Cactus Jack" seemed none the worse for his tiresome journey, or the nine speeches he delivered at way points through Texas. Although the Garner train didn't reach Uvalde until near midnight last night, both were up at dawn.

4 POWERS DISAGREE ON LAND GUN ACCORD

Americans Holding Out for Total Abolition as Deadlock Delays Recess.

Geneva, July 19 (A.P.).—A deadlock on heavy mobile land guns continued today to delay recess for the World Disarmament Conference, the Americans holding out for total abolition of these weapons in an adjournment resolution.

A four-power conference among the Americans, Italians, French and English was held today, and, after four hours, was still unable to agree on this point of the proposed 5-point resolution.

As tentatively prepared, the mobile gun resolution would read, in effect, like this:

The conference has virtually reached an agreement on the prohibition of gas and bacteriological warfare; the prohibition (or perhaps restriction) of heavy mobile land artillery and tanks, prohibition or restriction of air bombing, and has agreed to provide for an international disarmament commission.

The French and English delegation would strike out the reference to heavy mobile land guns, but they are willing to reduce heavy naval guns.

The four powers will resume their discussion tomorrow in the hope of settling the text by noon. If they succeed, the general commission will be convened in the afternoon to receive the text, and again on Thursday for general debate on it.

Lead Business Recovery, Sloan Tells Journalists

San Francisco, July 19 (A.P.).—Alfred P. Sloan, jr., president of General Motors Corporation, called upon American newspapermen today to lead the way to business improvement, starting with a recognition of economic conditions as they exist, and proceeding with the working out of a plan to meet these conditions.

His message to the National Editorial Association in convention here, read by Watt L. Moreland, of Los Angeles, said there must be self-confidence on the part of those who have means, and urged careful attention to job insurance and a quickening of credit as helps to business.

Arlington Democrats Will Map Campaign

John Capone Grilled By Federal Prosecutor

Chicago, July 19 (A.P.).—John Capone, another member of Chicago's notorious gangster family, today was ordered to appear before a Federal grand jury considering evidence against the Capone liquor syndicate.

Arrested with $4,300 in cash in his pockets, Capone has been held by Chicago police on disorderly conduct charges and was taken today before Assistant United States District Attorney Daniel Anderson for questioning. Assuming an uncommunicative air the younger Capone said he had been in the automobile business until four years ago, but refused to tell his present business.

The Whole Trend is toward a Milder Cigarette

Do you remember the days when you first started to smoke?

ALL CIGARETTES tasted somewhat alike to you, but after awhile you noticed that some cigarettes were decidedly stronger than others... Remember?

As smokers become more experienced, they demand milder cigarettes. Chesterfields are milder. There is no argument about that. Their mildness is a feature as distinctive as their package or their trade mark.

Their tobaccos are mild to begin with. Patient ageing and curing make them milder still.

In this nerve-racking time, smokers—men and women—are showing a decided preference for milder cigarettes.

GARNER THE REAL ISSUE.

Enthusiasm ran high among Texas Democrats when Speaker Garner returned home. He was hailed with delight as the leader of the Democratic party, the only two-fisted champion who had dared to grapple with President Hoover. The Speaker himself was so ecstatic over his reception that he seemed to forget that he was merely running for the Vice Presidency. He forgot Roosevelt, and came forward boldly as the choice of the Democratic party in its campaign against Hoover. Mr. Garner recalled that Texas and California had considered him "fit timber to deal with Herbert Hoover," and he assured his fellow Texans that he was "big enough for the job."

Gov. Roosevelt does not appear in the picture. Apparently Speaker Garner feels that he must make the fight, if anybody is to make it. He is right, in a sense, because he has borne the brunt of the struggle in Congress, while Gov. Roosevelt knows nothing of the ins and outs of Federal matters.

It is an odd and embarrassing situation, in which the tail of the kite becomes more important and influential than the head. Speaker Garner has made himself the issue. His proposals, his combats with President Hoover, and his dynamic personality have completely overshadowed the colorless figure at the head of the ticket. The Democratic party has committed itself to Garner and Garner policies, and will win or lose on them.

Democrats in the East view the Garner campaign with consternation. They do not know him, and do not like him or his political associates. Al Smith, who fought Gov. Roosevelt so bitterly, now discovers that he wasted his time. He should have been fighting Garner, who now takes command of the party.

Gov. Roosevelt is rapidly drifting into an intolerable position. Is he the real leader of Democracy? The Democratic New York Times does not think so, as it remarks that "this year Mr. Garner is a central figure in the campaign," and adds, "Lately the issue has been personified as between the President and the Speaker." Yet Gov. Roosevelt must either set aside Mr. Garner and his pork-barrel campaign, or submit to the Garner leadership on the pork-barrel issue. How is the Governor to squelch the Speaker without a first-class party row? How can Mr. Garner be made to understand that he is expected to play second fiddle only? If Gov. Roosevelt should decide that he will endeavor to be leader in fact as well as in name, has he the force to make his will effective against the fiery and aggressive personality that now dominates the party?

Gov. Roosevelt has never occupied the national stage. His ideas of government in the Federal sense seem to be as vague as his knowledge. In this respect he is handicapped in any effort he may make to overshadow Speaker Garner, who with all his astounding notions of pork-barrel prosperity is acknowledged to be familiar with the affairs of the Government. When Gov. Roosevelt speaks of administering the Government his words have a hollow and unreal sound, like mutterings in a dream; but when Jack Garner speaks, his voice cuts like the midnight cry of a Texas coyote. No one can mistake his meaning. He wants pork—pork for the masses—and if the masses will support him he will move on the Treasury. It will be difficult, indeed, for Gov. Roosevelt to stifle this cry from the cactus belt. When Jack Garner speaks for the masses, can Gov. Roosevelt tell him to be silent?

FIGHTING THE SEAWAY.

Democratic sharpshooters are finding a good deal of amusement in the omission of the inland waterways plank in the Republican platform approved at Chicago. It seems that this plank was adopted by the resolutions committee, but the sheet on which is was printed was lost, and therefore, it did not receive approval of the convention. The error has been corrected by the national committee and the plank now appears in the official platform.

More interest attaches to the exclusion from the Democratic platform of a clause indorsing the St. Lawrence-Great Lakes waterway. As approved by the committee on resolutions the plank in question advocated "expansion of the Federal program of necessary and useful construction affected with a public interest, such as adequate flood control and waterways, including the St. Lawrence-Great Lakes deep waterway." Something happened between the time this version of the plank was given to the press and when it was read to the convention. As presented to and approved by the delegates the platform contained no mention of the St. Lawrence project. Likewise that project is neglected in the official platform as published by the Democratic national committee.

The public would like to know why the indorsement of the St. Lawrence waterway was deliberately expurgated from the platform. Did the committee fear that it would be distasteful to Gov. Roosevelt? The opposition of New York to giving the Middle West a water outlet to the sea is well known. How does Gov. Roosevelt stand on this important question?

Further indication that the Democrats are beginning to line up against the St. Lawrence project is contained in an editorial in the Democratic Baltimore Sun. The Sun objects to it as "an undertaking to expand the seacoasts of the American continent" and warns the public against another "white elephant." This is probably the forerunner of a Democratic attack upon the treaty negotiated by President Hoover with Canada.

It would be well for the Democratic party to go slow in opposing this great development. The people undoubtedly favor cheap transportation for the crops and the manufactures of the Middle West. Opposition to this proposed connecting link between the Great Lakes and the Atlantic comes chiefly from interests who do not want competition with mid-western industries and who want to force trans-Atlantic traffic through New York harbor. It would be a serious mistake for the Democratic party to throw its influence behind these selfish objectives.

A CONSERVATIVE NATION.

The common sense of the American people has never been better demonstrated than during the present depression. Foreign statesmen and writers who have read of decreased business, loss of security values and unemployment are amazed upon actual inspection of conditions in the United States to find that, serious as the situation is in some respects, it is not nearly as bad as in many European countries. They are more surprised still to learn that, even among those who are out of work, there is no social unrest.

The American workman knows full well that the standard of living in this country is the highest in the world, and that, even if he be temporarily unemployed, better times are on the way. He knows that nothing is to be gained by attempts to disrupt the Government. One of the most striking and encouraging features of these trying years has been the enlightened cooperation of labor in making necessary readjustments in wages and hours of work. The absence of strikes and disputes is a credit to American common sense.

This attitude on the part of employes of every rank and grade will reap a just reward. Labor leaders, commercial organizations, trade bodies and executive conferences are all planning today for better things when business resumes normal activity. Definite plans are being made for the greater security of labor. These plans find echo in the directorates of thousands of corporations. The adoption of shorter hours, to provide employment for the percentage displaced by machines, is bound to be more generally observed. Cooperative unemployment reserve funds will hereafter be the rule rather than the exception.

Instead of running amuck and tearing down the economic structure, industry and labor are making it better and stronger. Conservatism in the true sense is the rule of action throughout all industries.

A NEW CREDIT POLICY.

An amendment to the relief act which caused the Treasury and Federal Reserve officials a good deal of worry seems to have been turned into an asset. After Speaker Garner's attempt to have the Reconstruction Finance Corporation make loans to individuals had failed, Senator Glass brought forth an amendment, permitting the Federal Reserve Banks to make loans directly to individuals and corporations. This provision was incorporated in the relief measure.

Widespread disapproval greeted the Glass amendment. The Federal Reserve is a system of bankers' banks. Those institutions are not equipped to make loans to the public, and such is not their function. It was never intended that they should enter into competition with their member banks, which supply their capital and contribute to the reserve funds on which they operate. In principle, therefore, the Glass amendment is both unsound and impractical.

However, a number of safeguards in the amendment leave its application entirely within the discretion of the Federal Reserve Board. Loans to individuals can be made only by a vote of five of the seven board members, and only in "unusual and exigent circumstances." These two safeguards would serve to nullify the amendment if the board should so decide. In the hands of the present board there is no danger whatever that the privilege of direct lending would be abused.

It is also provided that no loan shall be made by the Federal Reserve system unless evidence is presented that the applicant is unable to obtain credit from other banks. Furthermore, no direct loans can be made, except on security that would be eligible for discount at the Federal Reserve banks if offered by a member bank. In other words, the Federal Reserve system can not make direct loans unless the banks in some locality are deliberately hoarding money.

The Reserve Board has decided that it will not make any direct loans to the public unless commercial banks first have an opportunity to supply the desired credit. The board will thus hold a whip over timorous bankers. If banks are asked for credit on sound security and refuse to make a loan, they will invite the competition of the Federal Reserve banks. The central banks can thus keep a check on the credit policies of their member banks, and can use pressure to prevent hoarding of funds in banks.

Under these regulations it appears that the authority to make loans directly to individuals may strengthen the policy of the board in forcing credit into business and industry. Committees are already at work in each Federal Reserve district, trying to devise means of using credit to overcome the depression. If kept under rigid control, this new power granted to the board may be an important factor in loosening credit in districts where bankers are too frightened to make loans on good security.

JAPANESE IN BRAZIL.

In connection with the present discussion of Japanese as colonizers it is interesting to note what they have done in Brazil. Japan first devoted serious attention to the possibilities of South American colonies at the end of the world war. Consular posts were established in Brazil, after that nation permitted entry of orientals, and a steady stream of Japanese started for that country.

Since 1922 many thousands of Japanese have emigrated to Brazil. In the four years from 1926 through 1929 over 45,000 arrived in the republic. Many of these immigrants had gone out on two-year contracts to work as agricultural laborers on coffee plantations in the state of Sao Paulo in southern Brazil. A large part of these workers eventually found their way to the towns and cities after the completion of their contracts. An organized colony of Japanese exists at Iguape, in Sao Paulo, though recently the trend has been to the North.

A Japanese colonization company was formed in 1928 at Para, which is near the mouth of the Amazon river in Northern Brazil. This company acquired land at Acara, which is further inland. By June, 1931, about 350 houses had been constructed by the Japanese immigrants. Out of the large acreage reserved for cultivation, nearly all had been colonized. A hospital, sawmill, mechanical workshop, post and telegraph offices and meteorological station had been established. Schools were opened and silk-worm and rice cultivation were under way.

This colony is in the equatorial tropics while the one in Sao Paulo is located in the temperate belt. At Acara more than 40,000 cocoa trees have been planted and 1,600 acres are in rice, while many mulberry trees have been set out. The thrifty Japanese have, of course, provided ample vegetable gardens. Fifty miles of roads connect the outlying plantations. The announced object of the colonization project was not to make it a great export producer, but rather that the residents might perfect a self-sustaining community. The success of the movement to this distant land, in contrast to the comparatively few Japanese who have settled in near-by Manchuria, is proof of the preference of these people for a mild climate.

HIGH COST OF HEALTH

From the Cleveland Press.

Doctor and hospital bills to the average American family are somber realities. In this healthful country are 200,000,000 cases of illness a year. At any given time, 2 per cent of the population are "laid up." The average American is sick nearly twice a year. Wage-earners lose 250,000,000 working days, or $1,250,000,000 annually, from sickness. Our $3,000,000,000 sick bill falls heaviest upon the self-respecting working and middle classes. The very poor go to free clinics and public hospitals and the rich have means of preventing and curing their ills.

Aside from the fact that preventive health establishments in city and rural communities are inadequate, the American health plant appears to be fairly adequate. We have 1,500,000 health workers and a $3,125,000,000 hospital equipment. The American doctor averages around $5,000 net income, while the big majority of private hospitals operate at a loss. They are modern and efficient, as shown by their ability to conquer such great killers as bubonic plague, malaria, typhus, yellow and typhoid fever and their brave fight on tuberculosis.

Why, then, is this vast health plant unavailable economically to the class that needs it most?

"A substantial portion of the American people have been cut off from the benefits of modern medical art and science because of the costs of medical services," says Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of the Interior. "At the same time, many doctors and other practitioners are not receiving incomes commensurate with their long years of training, and hospitals are facing financial difficulties."

To reconcile this paradox, a committee of physicians, called the committee on the costs of medical care, has been working for five years and will report its findings this fall. In answering the question of how the Nation's health facilities can be laid at the door of the average American, we suspect that it will have to go deeply into the fundamentals of our economic system.

Dr. Wilbur says that if our present scientific knowledge and service were equally distributed, it could be "bought" for between $35 to $50 a year per family. And it would add ten years to the average American's life span.

"Never Touched Him!"

POST HASTE.

Congress passed 500 bills, but be thankful; there were 17,500 that died.

European countries naturally feel a bit sore; after they cut off that $250,000,000 payment to the U. S., American tourists spent only $520,000,000 with them last year.

The St. Lawrence treaty's signed and you can sing "Two to Duluth" at the steamship ticket window in about ten years.

Paraguay and Bolivia, two neighbors in South America without a seaport between them, are scrapping over a parcel of ground in the center of that vast continent which neither one of them needs.

Weren't you thrilled that the Curie family found a neutron ray, which is stopped by paraffin? But is it nutritious or just neutral?

Uncle Sam's credit apparently isn't entirely exhausted when Treasury bills at less than one-half of 1 per cent interest are subscribed more than three times over.

It seems questionable judgment on the part of Speaker Garner to speak enigmatically of the President's "select clientele" when making a class-prejudice speech to the downtrodden peasants of Texas.

Those hungry party treasurers will doubtless demand an extra dividend when they hear how profitable the conventions were to Chicago.

Checking the Congressional Record for two years and counting the number who signed petitions, an unofficial statistician estimates that the population of the United States is 2,469,345,000.

With everything else feeling a bit more cheerful, wheat and the stock market insist upon nursing their ingrowing case of the dumps.

Talk of Hitler wanting to restore the overthrown for the crown prince is rather fantastic when the Nazi chief knows one other so eminently qualified to rule Germany.

Southern farmers being undecided whether it is a blessing or a curse, the boll weevil finds less competition this year over taking the cotton crop.

Mayor Walker is delayed in preparing his answer to the Seabury charges. There is a governor who would not mind if it took Walker till December to finish.

Judging from the quality of his remarks since leaving the Capital, Speaker Garner's congressional defeats hurt worse than he let on.

JUST FOLKS

SELF-RELIANCE.

Who builds his hopes on fickle things,
The joy some mere possession brings,
The trinkets silver coins can buy,
Has naught on which he can rely,
For luxury and swollen pride
In battle quickly fall aside.

Life has no crushing fears for him
Who keeps his hands in working trim,
And, self-reliant, looks about
In every time of need and doubt
And says, "No failure I'll admit
While I for battle still am fit!"

Wisdom and faith and courage stay
When luxuries are blown away.
The rich resources of the will
Are man's supreme possessions still.
With these a man can find his way,
However dark may be the day.

A Crisis Can't Make Him a Hero Unless He Has a Capacity for Heroism

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THIS is addressed to young people who are confused by the theory of evolution.

There is conclusive evidence that plants and animals can be changed by selective breeding. There is evidence equally conclusive that such changes were made by a natural process long before man began to leave a record of his life on earth. Simple forms of plant and animal life evolved into higher forms. And reason gives assurance that these changes were effected by the influence of climate, natural selection, the survival of the fittest and hard necessity.

So much of the theory of evolution is conceded to be true.

But there is no evidence to indicate that man ever was anything other than man, and reason provides conclusive evidence that the human family must have been a distinct species from the beginning.

Whether man was placed on earth in his present form or began his existence as a germ of life in a drop of ditch water, he has always been man or man-in-the-making and always has differed from all other living creatures.

The logic of it is so clear and unmistakable that a child can understand it.

Throughout the whole scheme of the universe, effect follows cause. Conditions of today were made inevitable by the conditions of yesterday, and yesterday was the product of the day before, and so on back to the beginning.

The oak tree is but an acorn fully developed. Every leaf and twig of the tree existed in the acorn. The acorn, and the acorn alone, has within itself the capacity to become an oak—and to become nothing else.

As a chicken is in one egg and a duck in another, beyond possibility of change, so the man of today must have been in any previous form of life from which he developed.

Consider the brain center that enables man to speak. No other creature possesses it. Yet man as a tadpole, if ever he was a tadpole, must have possessed the capacity to develop it—else he couldn't have it now.

Parents can't transmit something they haven't got. Man as he is affords proof that his first parents gave him the capacity to become as he is.

Whatever man may have been, he must always have been distinct from all other creatures; for the oak tree can have no possibilities except those given to it by the acorn, and all trees would be oaks if other seeds had the acorn's capacities.

Ohio State Journal.

Another impression one gains by listening to radiocasts of conventions is that the country is in no immediate danger of depletion of natural gas resources.

To the Tune of Billions.
Boston Herald.

As our ambassador told the Danes, Uncle Sam isn't Shylock. Nope. He's just Shylock's first syllable.

Gov. Roosevelt's Job.
New York Times.

It is not about the party machinery or the political committees that Gov. Roosevelt most needs to concern himself. What will require all his time and energy is mapping out and executing his plan of campaign. He will have to try to dispel some misconceptions of his own character as an executive and as a politician. It will be demanded of him that he show more vigor and be more explicit in discussing national issues.

Gov. Roosevelt has a special difficulty to confront which no presidential candidate ever before had to deal with. This is the trouble which the Democratic candidate for the Vice Presidency has already made for him and promises to render more vexing as the campaign goes on. It will certainly be no part-time job for the Governor to overcome the doubts and suspicions caused in some quarters by the attempt to identify his political ideas and proposals with those of Mr. Hearst and Speaker Garner.

"R's" Have It.
New York Sun.

The battle cry of Democracy will be "Roosevelt and Repeal."

The St. Lawrence Seaway.
New York Herald Tribune.

Washington has for the moment estopped all further discussion of the St. Lawrence waterway and of the political, no less than the power, problems bound up with it. Agreement upon a treaty with Canada has at last after many years of propaganda, study, controversy and negotiation, been definitely achieved. In outline the great St. Lawrence project has a massive and magnificent simplicity, but in detail it is capable of almost infinite variation, and it is only in accordance with the detailed adjustment which has been arrived at in such matters as the allocation of costs, engineering plan and political control that the benefits or demerits of the whole can be adjudged.

Garner a Liability.
Providence Journal.

The choice of Mr. Garner was viewed with a good deal of elation by his fellow-Democrats—or by some of them. They saw in him an asset of real value to the party cause. They visualized him as a powerful spellbinder on the hustings of the South and West. Moreover, they calculated that as Speaker of the House at Washington he had achieved a solid political reputation as well as a useful personal popularity. But they overlooked the fact that he had demonstrated no distinct gift of leadership since his elevation to the Speaker's rostrum; that he had, indeed, shown himself lacking in that gift at a critical time in national affairs. He is revealed as a political opportunist, and thus far must be regarded as a liability to the Democratic party in a presidential campaign where clear thinking and wise counsel are imperative.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Believes Manufacturer and Retailer Should Be Permitted to Fix Selling Price.

During the first session of the Seventy-second Congress much time was spent in the discussion of the stabilization of prices to benefit the producer, the manufacturer and the distributor. Most of the plans acted upon will cost the taxpayer millions of dollars, and the expense of the salaries and overhead of the commissions or bureaus handling these relief measures. The retail merchants in the United States handle some $50,000,000,000 of business each year. Most of the products of the producer and the manufacturer eventually pass through their hands. Could this gigantic retail business be stabilized so that the retailers could obtain a fair profit in handling the products, it would be a material help to the producer and manufacturer. It probably would stabilize production and price, allowing both the producer and the manufacturer a market and a profit.

Nationally advertised merchandise makes up a fair share of the retailers' volume. The value of national advertising has in many instances been destroyed by the predatory price cutter. The independent retailers introduced into the first session of the Seventy-second Congress a bill known as the Capper-Kelly fair trade bill. This bill aims to allow the right of contract between the manufacturer and the retailer as to a fair selling price.

This Capper-Kelly fair trade bill would not create any new commission, or cost the people 1 cent in taxes. This legislation is before the Senate, and retailers are demanding an early vote when Congress convenes in December. As stabilization of price is the main feature of this bill, the customer's interests are protected. By this measure the honest retailer will no longer be forced to meet unfair and dishonest competition, which has been ruinous to him during the last few years.

W. BRUCE PHILIP.

Automobile Speed Limits of the States—"Reasonable and Proper" Becoming the Rule.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Fourteen States now ask the motorist to content himself with a speed that is reasonable and proper, having abolished specified arbitrary maximum limits. These are Connecticut, Florida, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Michigan, Montana, Nevada, Oregon, Tennessee, Vermont, Wisconsin and Wyoming. In two others, Massachusetts, with a specified speed limit of 30 miles an hour, and Missouri with 25, the rule of "reasonable and proper" authorizes a higher rate than these when traffic and highway conditions permit.

Fourteen of the States have adopted specified rates of 45 miles an hour. They are Alabama, California, Illinois, Louisiana, Minnesota, Nebraska, New Mexico, North Carolina, Ohio, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Texas, Virginia and West Virginia. The number having 40-mile maximum limits is nine. They are Delaware, Georgia, Kentucky, Maryland, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, South Dakota and Washington.

That erstwhile virtually universal speed limit of 35 miles an hour now is limited to but six States. Arizona, Arkansas, Colorado, Idaho New Hampshire and Rhode Island constitute this sextet.

North Dakota stands alone in its advocacy of a maximum speed limit of 50 miles an hour. Nevada, which had a similar law until about a year ago, has since gone to the reasonable and proper rule without any specified limit.

The other two States are Utah and Mississippi, both of which retain their long-established 30-mile-an-hour limits.

WILLIAM ULLMAN.

If Everybody Walks on the Grass There Will Be No Grass.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I am a bit fed up with the common man. After all, there is nothing to rave about in just being common, although many common folks are worthy and admirable and some of them heroic. But why whoop and yell over them and give them ovations? You only give them false ideas of life.

I want to say a word for the uncommon people, who are being blackjacked. These are the nucleus of civilization. When the crisis comes, it is to these we must appeal. And if these do not pull us through as we had hoped, may not much of the failure be due to the fact that our leaders are being cried down by mobs and hectored and nagged by the failures? Witness the terror in Russia, when the common man was glorified to the limit of absurdity. The intelligentsia and the specialists, all directing forces, were assassinated or exiled. The reds wanted "equality," and they proceeded to kill off educated people. But when production ceased, the reds had to call back these trained people—those who had survived.

"Equality" is not a law of nature. So when we try and force the issue, nature rings in her law of diminishing returns upon us, which same is a law that cannot be repealed or nullified. This law decrees that everybody cannot have everything; but if they persist in trying, nobody will have anything.

I have in mind an incident of my childhood. We were staying in a large city, where a park called Liberty Park was free of all forbidding signs. One could do as one pleased in that park—go on the grass, for instance. But as the kind monitor of my childish mind pointed out to me, there was no grass.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

A CELEBRATION in Buenos Aires, participated in by the President of Argentina and Robert Woods Bliss, American Ambassador, and transmitted via short waves, was heard so clearly in Washington recently that L. W. Windmuller, in the National Press Building, succeeded in recording the ceremonies on an aluminum disk. It is believed to be the first short-wave program from across the equator ever successfully recorded.

Although some static was picked up, the 7,000-mile broadcast is strikingly clear on the record. There is a rendition by the National Band of the Argentinian hymn, "Oid mortales, el grito, sagrado." The final recorded words are those of the announcer at Station LR4, in Buenos Aires.

Recordings have also been made by Mr. Windmuller of the performances of Washington musicians. These include Mme. Marie von Unschuld and Rudolf Schramm, concert pianists.

Mr. Schramm has his own apparatus by means of which many of the Washington Gas Light radio programs, which he directs, are recorded. Mr. Schramm then plays the records over, finding them extremely helpful in enabling him to criticize and improve his programs.

A RADIO log showing the performance of two Majestic radio sets has been received from Gisborne, New Zealand. The owner, K. R. Graham, writes: "I have logged 62 American stations, some with only 100 watts of power, and with a daylight range supposedly but 1,000 miles. As I am writing this note the American station WBIG (Greensboro, N. C.) is on as loud as local."

Mr. Graham's log, besides covering the United States from KNX, Los Angeles; KOA, Denver, to WBIG, also includes Station WRC in Washington. Gisborne is a never-ending paradise for DX bugs.

Virginia Rea, soprano, is guest artist on the 8 o'clock program over the same station. * * * The Southernaires will be heard in a special program of spirituals and other songs of the old South during the program at 10 o'clock over WRC. * * * Henry Goddard Leach, editor, will discuss "The Fear of Libel" when he faces the microphone as guest speaker on "Bill Schudt's Going to Press" program at 4 o'clock over WMAL. * * * Ben Bernie and his orchestra are going to take a month's vacation from the air waves following the July 26 broadcast.

STATION WRNY, of New York City, owned and operated by Aviation Radio Station, Inc., which shares time on the 1010 kilocycle channel with WQAO-WPAP, licensed to the Calvary Baptist Church, and WHN, owned and operated by Marcus Loew Booking Agency, has filed an application with the Federal Radio Commission requesting that the license of the Calvary Baptist Church be revoked and its time assigned to WRNY. The ground for the application is that the church's station, WQAO-WPAP, is being operated in violation of the Radio Act.

Through Maxim Lowe, manager of musical entertainment, &c., for the Shoreham, Barnee and his Riviera Orchestra have been booked to broadcast every Friday evening via the southeast network of NBC.

Frank Crumit, who keeps a record of the songs requested on his program, declares he has received over 14,000 letters asking for "Abdul Abudubul Amir" since he went on the air several years ago.

THE Rollickers is a new quartet and is decidedly different in that it has the most unusual arrangements of vocal selections heard in a long time. The group sings a few bars from two or three of the numbers scheduled for their next program at the close of the quarter-hour.

TIGERS TRIUMPH, 3-2, FOR 3D STRAIGHT OVER NATS

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

THERE may be no sentiment in baseball, as they have been telling us for so many years, but two incidents so closely akin to the well-known tugging at the heartstrings took place at Griffith Stadium yesterday, that this department is beginning to doubt seriously the truth of the old adage.

Those tears that welled in the eyes of Sam Rice as he stood at home plate to receive the tributes of a grateful fandom were no phonies. Those salty crystals that coursed their way down the cheeks of the Nats' regular outfielder of seventeen years' regular service were no studio trick. Sam didn't bring the prop onion along for the occasion.

He told them it was the happiest day of his baseball career. That was his speech and with each succeeding tribute of the home-town fans there was no doubt that he meant it. Stolid old Sam Rice, feazed by the swift of no pitcher, almost broke down under the homage of an admiring fandom. If that wasn't sentiment on both sides, this column never knew the meaning of the word.

Sam Rice's tears are exhibit A of the case of this department against the well-known contention that there is no more sentiment in baseball than in the hearts of the Lindbergh baby snatchers. Exhibit B is an incident that took place in Mr. Griffith's office immediately after the game.

Rice was to get as a purse all of the proceeds of the game above a normal Tuesday crowd of 5,000 fans. The turnstiles showed exactly 5,093 customers, a total that would give Rice less than $100 for his purse.

Apprised of this, Clark Griffith reached for the telephone. "Connect me with Frank Navin, president of the Detroit Tigers," he told his secretary. The telephone company did its work quickly.

◆

"Hello, Clark."

"Frank, our crowd on Sam Rice Day today was only 5,093. That means less than $100 for Sam. That's not much. I'd like to do something more for Sam. As a matter of fact, if it's agreeable with you, the Washington Club will take it's end out of a 3,500 crowd. How does that strike you?"

Neither is Navin a piker:

"Clark," he answered. "That's swell. But why stop at 3,500? We'll call it a 3,000 crowd and give Sam the difference. That's the way the Detroit Club feels about Sam Rice, what do you say?"

"That's okay with me, too," Griff answered. "Sam will appreciate it. It was a 3,000 crowd, then, and Sam gets all over that figure, right?"

"Right," came Navin's answer.

And so Sam Rice, who was to net $93 as his purse, will receive $2,235 as his share through the benevolence of the Washington and Detroit clubs.

This column asks for a directed verdict of guilty on the charge that there is still some sentiment in baseball.

German Cup Team Named to Play U. S.

Victors Over British Are to Face Americans in Interzone Final.

Paris, July 19 (A.P.).—Daniel Prenn, Gottfried von Cramm, Jeanecke and Frez, the German team which swept through the European zone to surprise victory, today was named to meet the United States in the interzone final of Davis Cup play.

They will meet Ellsworth Vines, jr., Frank X. Shields, Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn on the courts of Roland Garros Stadium Friday, Saturday and Sunday. The draw for the matches will be made Thursday.

The Germans worked out today under the eyes of the American team and Bernon Prentice, nonplaying captain.

"The Germans look quite good," Prentice said after the workout, "especially Prenn. Our boys also are in fine shape."

With the challenge round only two weeks away, it appears Rene Lacoste will be back on the French team in place of Jean Borotra, who continues to refuse to accept a place despite his fine doubles play at Wimbledon, where he and Jacques Brugnon won the title. The other members of the French team will be Henri Cochet and Brugnon, with Cochet probably playing in both singles and doubles and Lacoste acting as captain and reserve singles player.

Trials Today For 100 U.S. Mittmen

Bobby Goldstein, of Capital, Is Strong Olympic Choice.

Moffett, Navy Boxer, Breaks Rib and Is Forced Out.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 19 (A.P.).—Boxers fine-combed from the country's amateur ranks tapered off training today, while a last-minute casualty eliminated one of the potential stars from tomorrow's opening of the three-night trials to determine the United States' team in the forthcoming Olympic games.

Lieut. George Moffett, member of the Navy team and son of Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, was forced to withdraw as a result of a cracked rib suffered in a workout yesterday.

Spike Webb, coach at the United States Naval Academy and head coach of the Olympic team, said Moffett had stood a good chance to win honors in the 126-pound division.

Eight A. A. U. Champs Among Aspirants.

Eight national A. A. U. title holders are ready to join the nearly 100 boxers in battling for the eight places on the team. Seven national intercollegiate champions have aspirations to wear the American shield.

Three standouts in the A. A. U. championship squad include Louis Salica, of Brooklyn, 112-pound crown bearer; Jimmy Martin, of New York, in the 118-pound division, and Eddie Flynn, of Loyola University, New Orleans, 147-pound class ruler.

Hailing from Washington, D. C., and a strong favorite to win a place on the United States Team in the 135-pound class is Bobby Goldstein, intercollegiate champion at his weight and representing the University of Virginia.

Young Goldstein came to the Coast with the East's general approval as one of the most accomplished boxers ever to seek a place on the Olympic Team. Last year he advanced to the semifinals of the National A. A. U. tournament, losing on a split decision, and in three years of fighting for the University of Virginia, which he now captains, he has not been defeated.

Goldstein, a brother of a former A. E. F. champion, combines a punch with cleverness that makes him one of the outstanding choices in the tournament.

Departmental League Meeting Is Postponed

Edward J. Conover, secretary-treasurer of the Departmental Baseball League, has announced that the meeting slated for tonight has been postponed until Monday, at 8:30 in the green room of the Government Printing Office. The illness of President Vic Gauzza caused the postponement.

Wes Ferrell Wins 17th, Blanking Red Sox, 7-0

Boston, July 19 (A.P.).—Wes Ferrell hung up his seventeenth victory of the year and his first shutout by letting the Red Sox down with four hits today. The score was 7 to 0.

Connolly, Sox catcher, made two of the four bingles, the first coming in the sixth inning to break any chance of a no-hit game.

Public Links Golfers Led By Youths

Four Tied With 71's; Columbus Players Team Leaders.

Burrows Tops D. C. Hopefuls With 76; Burnett Next.

By S. V. STILES.

SHAWNEE GOLF COURSE, Louisville, Ky., July 19 (A.P.).—From Brooklyn, Little Rock, Ark.; St. Paul, Minn., and Long Beach, Calif., came four sturdy youngsters today to show themselves worthy claimants to the throne of national public links golf won last year by the stocky young steel worker, Charles Ferrara, San Francisco.

The quartet tallied 71 each—Ralph Strafaci, Brooklyn's 18-year-old high school student; Horace Lacey, 22, Little Rock insurance salesman, who is his city and State public links champion; Joe Coria, 22, of St. Paul, medalist and runner-up in his State public links tourney, and Joe Nicholls, 16, Long Beach, Calif., runner-up to Ferrara in the 1931 national tournament.

Burrows Leads Washingtonians.

Four of the five Washingtonians competing were closely bunched, Bradley Burrows led the group with a card of 76 to a 77 shot by Olney Burnett, jr. Harlan Will came through with a 79 and George Malloy, District champion, 80. L. J. Fuchs trailed with 86.

Among the low scorers were Byron Hunt, Columbus, Ohio, youngster, and Ray E. Jones, Richmond, Ind., each with 72. Eight others had 73, seven tallied 74, ten, 75, fourteen, 76, and seventeen 77, making it almost certain the total for the 36-hole qualifying round will have to be under 150 to get into the select 32 who will start match play Thursday afternoon and compete until the 1932 titlist is determined Saturday afternoon.

Columbus, Ohio, took the lead for the Harding Cup with a total of 302 for the first day's play. The cup goes to the four-man team from one city which has the lowest total score in the two days of qualifying play. Louisville, with 308, pressed the Ohioans hard. There were 33 city teams entered for the Harding Cup.

Washington's team total was 321 and leaves the group little chance. Burnett, who shot a 77, was not a member of the cup team.

Trainer Sees Ruth Ready by Saturday

New York, July 19 (A.P.).—George Herman (Babe) Ruth, the great man of the Yankees, who tore a muscle in his left leg in yesterday's game with the Chicago White Sox, should be back in the line-up by Saturday, in the opinion of his trainer, Artie McGovern.

"It's just a 'Charley Horse,'" McGovern explained today after he had massaged the Babe's aching leg. "It's nothing that hasn't happened to a lot of other ball players and should heal quickly. He should be back on his feet by Thursday and back in the game by Saturday at the latest."

The Babe is spending his enforced vacation on a couch in his Riverside Drive apartment, with an electric pad wrapped around the injured member.

Ruth confided to friends some time ago that this season was the "longest" he had ever seen and McGovern believes the rest will do him good.

Coach Says Eastman Suffers From Sinus

Stanford University, Calif., July 19 (A.P.).—Ben Eastman, Stanford's long-legged middle distance star, competed in the final Olympic track and field tryouts here last week and won a place on the team while suffering from an attack of sinus trouble.

This was disclosed today by Coach R. L. "Dink" Templeton, who said his charge had kept his affliction a secret from every one for fear he would not be permitted to compete in the tryouts.

Coach Templeton said Eastman ran the 400 meters final on Saturday with a slight temperature and that he had been ill for nearly a month.

BROWNS BOW TWICE TO MACKS

Foxx Hits Homer 39 as A's Win, 9 to 8 and 16 to 6.

PHILADELPHIA, July 19 (A.P.).—The Philadelphia Athletics slugged their way to two victories over the St. Louis Browns today, 9 to 8 in the first game and 16 to 6 in the nightcap. The A's had a total of 29 hits in the two games.

Jimmy Foxx, with a home run inside the park in the second game, boosted his season's total to 39. Roger Cramer had four hits in five times at bat in the first game and duplicated the feat in the second contest.

Ninth Victory for Walberg.

The second game became Rube Walberg's ninth success of the year when his mates pounced on three St. Louis pitchers, making 16 runs out of 14 hits.

Earnshaw in the first game held the Browns to six hits and two runs in the first seven innings. Then, in the eighth, St. Louis belted out five consecutive hits, the last a double by Melillo, to send him to the bench. For the second straight day Grove was sent to the rescue.

Honors Heaped Upon Nats' Veteran for 17 Years' Service.

"SAM RICE DAY" was a great success at the stadium yesterday and, despite the fact that the crowd was not as large as hoped for by the committee in charge, the affair was put over in a big way and the veteran Washington outfielder was heaped with enough glory and presents to make the day a red letter one in his life. As a matter of fact, he was so affected when called before the loud speaker that all he could say was, "Thanks, folks. This is the greatest day in my baseball career."

President Herbert Hoover gave official recognition to the day in honor of the player by writing him a personal letter of praise and congratulation, while three other clubs had players represent them at the ceremonies—Herb Pennock, Ed Rommel and Milton Gaston, of the Yankees, Athletics and White Sox, respectively, attending in uniform.

The Elks Boys Band, the fezzed Almas Temple musical unit and Comedians Altrock and Schacht helped entertain the crowd until the ceremonies started, and then these were gotten away with a snap and dash which caused none of those present to yell "Aw, play ball!"

Given Cash and Presents.

In addition to the honors heaped upon him, the day netted Rice $2,235.09 in cash, a Studebaker automobile, a massive suitably engraved silver loving cup and the following other gifts: A handsome silver service from the Washington Team, a Bulova electric clock from the Ross Co., a wicker set made and presented by the wounded war veterans of Walter Reed, a wrist watch from the Kay Jewelry Co., a portrait of Rice painted and presented by Frank Hall, of Alexandria; a silver service set from Almas Temple, an order for a set of golf clubs from the Indian Spring Club, and floral pieces from Blackistone's and Schaeffer's.

Even Umpire Brick Owens made a contribution. Usually players strike out their first time at bat following ceremonies of this kind, but Rice crossed the dope by singling cleanly to left. When the ball was returned to the infield the arbiter stopped the game, called for it and tossed it to Manager Walter Johnson to give to Rice as a souvenir.

The President's letter to the player read:

"My dear Mr. Rice:

"You have given all of us who love baseball so much pleasure that you have richly earned the honor of a 'Sam Rice Day.' I heartily congratulate you upon your seventeen years with the Washington Baseball Club and wish for you every success in the future.

"Yours faithfully,
"HERBERT HOOVER."

Last night the following was sent to the local newspapers by Rice: "Please accept my grateful thanks for the wonderful tribute paid me by the fans and sports writers. Will you

SPEER BEATS WILSON AT BOLLING

WHEN they make rassling matches louder and funnier, look to Messrs. Ahearn and Bertolini and their Bolling Field playboys. The troupe made merry in the little arena on the banks of the Anacostia last night and 1,000 staggered home holding their sides.

It began at 8:30 when Arthur Dick and Buck Olson started falling around on Referee Billy Jones and ended about three hours later with Frankenstine Frank Speer blowing his nose without benefit of handkerchief on ringsiders, as his victim, Handsome Ralph Wilson, lay prostrate on the mat.

All of them swung punches that missed by miles, and all, when on the receiving end, fell without getting hit. Then they snorted and stomped and skipped, crawled and ran, and aimed blows at the referee George McLeod punched a spectator when that brave soul left his seat and tried to stop him from kicking George Manich in the face.

But there was a serious angle at that. Everybody expected the popular Dr. Wilson to beat Speers because Wilson, as past performances have shown, is one of the built-up performers of the game. So for once there was an upset in rassling and to the villain went the spoils.

Speers Enjoys Hatred Of Fans.

Speers seemed to enjoy the fans' distinctly expressed hatred, judging from the businesslike manner in which he spat in all directions beyond the ring. Finally after 32 minutes of assorted assault and mayhem, he pinned Wilson with successive flying mares and body slams.

Glenn Munn, 6-foot-8 Nebraskan and brother of the late world's champion, Wayne Munn, won his second straight bout by stretching out the cauliflower-stuffed Herb Freeman, of New York, after 9 minutes of the semi-final.

McLeod and Manich quit the ring all even after 30 minutes.

The Masked Marvel required only 3 minutes to subdue Tony Felice, who was openly accused of being Chief White Feather, while Joe Devito drew in 20 minutes with Jerry Monoghan, and Arthur Dick tossed Buck Olson in 11.

Southpaw Holds Sox to Four Hits as Yankees Take Fourth Straight.

New York, July 19 (A.P.).—Lefty Vernon Gomez had little trouble today winning his sixteenth victory of the season, defeating the Chicago White Sox, 6 to 3, with a seven-hit performance. It was the Yanks' fourth straight over Chicago.

Joe Sewell hit his eighth homer of the season in the fifth inning for the winning tally after the Sox had scored all their runs in the fourth on two singles, Chapman's error and Grube's double.

Hogsett Halts Nats, Scattering 9 Hits; 8 Are Singles.

Davis, Hayworth and Rogell Leaders of Attack.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

EVER since baseball originated back in the dark ages, players have tried to throw balls before catching them, but none ever yet has accomplished the stunt. Sammy West tried to do it yesterday as part of the "Sam Rice Day" proceedings but failed and, as a result, the Tigers beat the Nationals, 3 to 2. The loss kept the home team from climbing back into fourth place and the two runs which came following this miscue broke a consecutive scoreless-inning streak of Pitcher Alphonse Thomas which had been extended to 27 innings.

The Nationals were leading, 1 to 0, when the seventh opened, one was out and Rogell and Hayworth were on third and first, respectively, as a result of successive singles, when West tried his trick. He hustled in fairly close to second to take Pitcher Elon Hogsett's fly, apparently caught it, and then let the ball fall to the ground while attempting to make a quick throw to nip Rogell trying to score after the catch.

West might not have stopped this run had he made the catch and peg, but he had a good chance of doing so. The occurrence seemed to temporarily upset Thomas, however, and two more hits, giving the aliens another run, were scored before the final out was turned in.

Coffman Yields Run.

But even these two runs would not have beaten the Nats had Dick Coffman, who entered the game starting the next round, been effective. He disposed of the first two batters to face him on only two deliveries, but then Rogell tripled to left center and Hayworth came through with a line-single.

Aside from their scoring innings, the Tigers continually had men on the runways, but Thomas always had something in reserve. Double plays helped him in two rounds. Catcher Moe Berg picked Gehringer off second with two on and none out in the sixth., while six strikeouts came in handy on several other occasions.

The Nationals started off well

REED FORESEES VICTORY OVER RAYMOND IN FIGHT TONIGHT

Welters Meet In Feature At Laurel

Southerner Declares He'll Tear Into Baltimorean.

Irving Seeks Chance at Van; Swetman Faces Simpson.

By JACK ESPEY.

JIMMY REED, belligerent Jacksonville welterweight, who bids fair to become the prize favorite of the Capital's fistic public, makes his second appearance in Twin City Arena tonight, meeting "One-Shot Phil" Raymond, respected Baltimore 140-pounder, in the ten-round feature of Promoter Charley Cornell's 14-round program. The punching begins at 8:30.

Reed, one of the most confident fighters ever to toss a glove in this vicinity, already has pronounced himself favorite at odds of 2 to 1. And he means every word of his statement, if past performance may be taken seriously. Two weeks ago he checked Jack Portney, another Baltimorean, whom he was not expected to defeat, and tonight he trades wallops with a man who has lost three times to that same Portney. However, Raymond, is a much stiffer puncher than Portney.

Reed to Change Style.

Fans who applauded Jimmy's cocksure, waiting style of fighting in his defeat of Portney, may look for a change in his tactics against Raymond. Whereas Portney carried the battling to Reed, the Southerner declares he will do the forcing tonight, and that Raymond had better throw up a stout defense if he hopes to leave the ring under his own steam. In other words, Reed is going to tear into "One-Shot Phil" at the outset with a determination to end it quickly.

A pair of six-round bouts are listed in chief support of the feature. Henry Irving, who is sharpening his attack for Young Van, local rival for middleweight honors, is matched against one "Big Boy" Smith, of Salisbury, Md.

In the other six, Pete DeAngeles has been substituted for Ace Dundee against Don Whitlock. Promoter Cornell discovered yesterday that Dundee is too light for Whitlock, who is now scaling 144 pounds. DeAngeles is the boy who made the game stand against Ray Bowen at the Twin City a few weeks ago, losing on a technical K. O. when the referee stopped the battle because of a cut eye.

A promising four-rounder brings together Young Jack Simpson, bantamweight stablemate of Reed, and Doug Swetman, of this city. Simpson showed plenty of experience and courage in beating Tommy Horn two weeks ago, while Swetman has been doing creditable work hereabouts for six months. Buck Taylor, Baltimore lightweight, meets Soldier Clark, of Fort Washington, and Johnny Koles, Baltimore welterweight, battles Sailor Leonard, of Norfolk, in the other preliminaries.

Ladies escorted will be admitted free. Buses departing from Annapolis Hotel on a five-minute schedule, starting at 7 o'clock, will provide transportation.

BOXING BITS' SELECTIONS—Reed to beat Raymond; Irving to beat Smith; De Angeles to beat Whitlock; Simpson to beat Swetman; Taylor to beat Clark, and Leonard to beat Koles. (Batting .717.)

JOE AND ASBESTOS

(Watch Sunday's Post for New Secret Code)

—By Ken Kling

Asbestos took a loss of 61 cents yesterday when French Duchess ran third, making the bank roll $56.98. Joe's handicaps Monday made $14.95 and now show $256.20 profit. The code horse ran out. Today he is ducking Head Play, Colored Artist, and other standouts to play a sleeper from his pal's stable that will be a nice price.

AT THE POST

—with Bill Bennings—

DEAR AL: ARLINGTON PARK, CHICAGO, JULY 19.

Gloritone, Con Amore and Captain Ed stepped down for me here today and I had two winners out of three choices at the other tracks. However, I've decided not to ask for a raise. They slipped in an eighth race on us today. As if it isn't hard enough to beat seven.

Here's the ones I like at the other courses: Elizabeth Fox, Journey's End, Deemster, French Lass. BILL.

FIRST RACE—The juveniles have been running like trained seals in the opener here day after day. For that reason, I'm putting PRICE TAG on the top of this sprint for maidens. FAIR IMAGE looks like the one to beat. Third money to MOBILE.

SECOND RACE—LASALLE appears to be a standout in this ordinary group. Carries the same weight as most of the contenders. ROLLING SEA for second ahead of WRIGLEY FIELD.

THIRD RACE—WORTHINGTON has said good-by to the maiden ranks and that fact may change his luck. Was a pretty fair animal to stay out of the winning circle so long. Loves this distance. CHICON is better than those recent showings. BEEKEEPER is ripening up to a winning performance and may be dangerous today.

FOURTH RACE—STOCK MARKET is Mr. Consistency himself and despite the fact that MAGNIFICO met with interference the last time, I'm putting the first named on top. ETCETERA, carrying only 99 pounds, for the third end.

FIFTH RACE—ZIDA won easily the last time, and I see no reason to believe that tomorrow will not bring a repeater. BATTERING RAM did not impress me the last time, but may get into place position. WATERPORT to beat the rest.

SIXTH RACE—EDELWEISS has only to run her race here to take this group into camp. A smart filly which has defeated some of the leading juveniles. TECHNIQUE'S finishing ability may account for second. SWIVEL for third.

SEVENTH RACE—Here he is, Al—our old friend CHOSEN PAL. This fellow can run on occasions and I believe this is one of those things. FERVOR is the dangerous one. SOPHIST for the show end.

EIGHTH RACE—KNEE HIGH will have only 97 pounds up tomorrow and I understand Coucci will do the riding. May be the day for this one to turn the trick. UNCLE HENRY and ANITA ORMONT for the rest.

In the Wake Of the Game

say for me that I appreciate my day at the baseball park and the many beautiful gifts but, above all, the sincerity of the fans in remembering me. Mrs. Rice joins me in thanking you."

Those participating in the ceremonies were Chairman Wash B. Williams, George E. Keneipp and Henry Tait Rodier, of the citizens' committee; Manager Walter Johnson, of the Nationals; W. C. Miller, acting potentate of Almas Temple, and H. A. Mihills, president of Indian Spring Golf Club.

The Tigers and Nationals meet again this afternoon, with Lloyd Brown getting another chance on the pitching hill for the home team against Vic Sorrell, of the Jungle Cats.

Davis opened the game with a bounder to Kuhel, which hit the first sacker on the head and temporarily knocked him out.

West hustled back almost to the flagpole to fasten himself on the end of Gehringer's long looper in the first.

Davis yelled "I got it—you take it" on Cronin's pop in the first, forcing Gehringer to make a great overhead, one-handed catch to prevent the ball from dropping safely. Two Nats were on the sacks at the time.

Stocks Almost at Standstill In 464,890-Share Session

Professional Brokers Give Up Hope of Advance; Tobaccos Gain.

New York, July 19 (A.P.).—Stocks dawdled today, responding so apathetically to professional operations in one or two groups that efforts toward a revival of the advance were abandoned. Closing prices represented almost a draw between minor advances and declines, with losses favored by a shade.

New York City tractions and the tobaccos gave a bullish tinge to the market for a time. The former received their inspiration from unification developments; the reasons for the latter's little flurry were not clear. Bonds about managed to hold their own in another dull session.

Some of yesterday's weak spots hardened, notably Du Pont, which seemed untroubled by its earnings report. Utilities were firmer. People's Gas rallied moderately as it became known that refunding operations for the Insull group's forthcoming maturities were to be undertaken soon.

Slight Improvement Staged.

American Telephone and Consolidated Gas improved fractionally. Rails tried to be hopeful over the outcome of the executives' conference, but got little real inspiration therefrom. American Tobacco "B," Reynolds "B" and Liggett & Myers "B" held part of their extreme gains of around a point. U. S. Steel was steady, although the preferred lost 1¾ net. Brooklyn-Manhattan had a 2-point rise. It was the dullest day since June 30, sales totaling 464,890 shares.

Brokers adhered to their recently expressed opinion that the market was being influenced almost solely by current business reports. Second quarter earnings statements are on the whole so poor, at least in comparison with a year ago, that Wall street realizes prospects for favorable changes in the current period, given a continuance of present rates of industrial activity, are discouraging.

Reports of Revival.

Scattering reports of increased business in some lines recall that similar manifestations of improvement appeared a year ago, and although bankers do not desire to minimize such evidence many of them prefer to wait until the case has been more clearly established before attempting to draw conclusions.

Investment bankers apparently are ready to give the bond market a rather thorough testing, since plans for marketing more new issues, in addition to the Insull financing, are understood to be under way.

Steel production, says American Metal Market, held last week's betterment but registered no further advance. The industry, this review asserts, "needs merely to continue its present rate to show it has gotten past its low point, for August would then naturally show a slight gain and September is counted upon to bring really substantial improvement in tonnage."

Price changes were narrow, with an average gain of one-tenth of a point. Trading was quiet and featureless. A steady trend persisted.

Curb.

Trading drifted apathetically in a slightly downward movement. Fluctuations were mixed. Oils closed sluggish.

Wheat.

All-time low ground of 44¼ cents per bushel was deserted for an advance. Crop loss advices gave impetus to the rise. Hedging sales curbed the rally.

2,650 CLOCKS ADDED TO FEDERAL ORDERS

Harriman Firm Denies Suit Charges of Britten in Statement.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Contracts for 2,650 synchronous electric clocks for three new Federal buildings here have been awarded to the Warren Telechron Co., of Ashland, Mass., according to announcement by N. W. Ayer & Son, Inc.

Approximately 1,100 clocks will be installed in the Department of Justice Building, 1,100 in the Interstate Commerce Commission and Department of Labor buildings and 450 in the Postoffice Department Building. The recent installation of 875 telechron clocks in the Bureau of Internal Revenue Building is said to be one of the largest in the world.

Each of the buildings will have its own system of clocks operated by alternating current and regulated by means of a telechron master clock in the power station. Each system will have a central control which will automatically operate the clocks in the event of current interruptions.

Engineering Service Arranged.

Stone & Webster Engineering Corporation, New York City, announces that it has closed a general contract with Potomac Electric Power Co. to furnish, when requested, consulting engineering and construction service, under which work is now in progress on design and construction of the company's new steam power station at Buzzards Point, junction of the Anacostia and Potomac rivers.

Initial installation probably will be 35,000 kilowatts and the station will be the most modern in every respect and designed for expansion to meet requirements of expected development of this city. The corporation will assist the local company in creating a station attractively set and designed to present a pleasing aspect from points of view on both sides of the Potomac. Design of equipment will prevent smoke or cinder nuisance.

The local company, it is announced by the corporation, will spend approximately $4,000,000 on this work which will provide employment for a large number of Washingtonians. It is expected that the new station will deliver power by October 1, 1933.

Harriman Firm's Denial.

In reply to allegations of Representative Fred A. Britten, of Illinois, in a suit filed Monday against Harriman & Co., brokers, and eight members of that firm, seeking $46,987 for alleged misrepresentation in the sale of stock, the following statement was issued yesterday from the local office of Harriman & Co.

"Harriman & Co. make emphatic denial of Representative Fred A. Britten's charges. In a statement made today by one of the partners of Harriman & Co., and also a defendant to the suit brought by Mr. Britten, it was said that Harriman & Co. at no time had any interest whatsoever in the stock of Southern Dairies Corporation, nor had they any interest in the negotiations to merge the Southern Dairies Corporation with the Kraft Cheese Corporation.

Harriman & Co., as commission brokers only, acted solely as agents for Mr. Britten in the purchase and sale of Southern Dairies "B" stock. These facts will be conclusively shown upon the trial of the action."

New Economic Era Looms In St. Lawrence Waterway

St. Paul, July 19 (A.P.).—A new economic era was visualized tonight by a land-locked empire in the signing of the St. Lawrence-Great Lakes Waterways Treaty.

It revived business hopes of eighteen States with two-fifths of the Nation's population replaced and an economic landscape of commercial depression with a picture of ocean steamers a decade hence nosing 1,500 miles inland to place the vast domain directly in the streams of world trade.

Incidental benefits, employment of thousands of men in carving out a channel through the St. Lawrence rapids section and deepening harbors at lake ports now limited to freshwater commerce, struck home with force to thousands now hard pressed for jobs. Duluth, Superior, Milwaukee, Chicago, Detroit, Toledo, Cleveland, Buffalo and other cities on the five great lakes quickened with a promise of a transition from domestic to world ports.

Up to 24,000,000 long tons of foreign and domestic cargo were available for movement through the seaway based on survey conducted by the Department of Commerce. Of this, up to 17,000,000 represents potential foreign trade, previously limited largely to rail movement.

The lower cost of water transportation is the key to the revived hopes. From Duluth-Superior, twin ports now second only to New York in the aggregate tonnage of annual water shipments, from Chicago and other grain terminals, wheat and other grains could be shipped to Liverpool for from 8 to 11.2 cents a bushel compared with the present cheapest water-rail combination rates of 17.6 cents.

BONDS CREEP HIGHER IN COLORLESS SALES

Average Gain Is Fractional, but Market Holds Steady; Changes Narrow.

New York, July 19 (A.P.).—The bond market was a dull and featureless affair today, although prices generally held to a steady and narrow range.

Sales totaled $8,796,000, par value, a slight decrease from yesterday's aggregate, and the average for 60 selected issues recorded a net gain of one-tenth of a point.

The United States Government list lost a large part of its following for no apparent reason, and some of the Treasury's even drifted into slightly lower territory. The recently buoyant 3s and 3½s, however, absorbed the principal trading in the Federal department and managed to emerge with moderate gains.

Those interested in Government securities, while still viewing as attractive those issues which, under the Glass bill, may be used by national banks for the issuance of new currency, were discussing the outlook for Treasury financing on August 1. Just how the forthcoming borrowing will be negotiated was the subject of some conjecture.

The utilities eased mildly, on the average, and the rails and industrials just about held their own.

Foreign obligations were unusually quiet. German government issues rallied moderately after weakness in early transactions, but they closed lower on the day. German municipal and corporate loans improved.

Some new utility financing was reported probable in the near future. Among issues rumored was one of $20,000,000 of the Union Electric Light & Power Corporation and some offerings on behalf of the Insull companies.

Kentucky Life Company Is Formed at Louisville

Louisville, Ky., July 19 (A.P.).—Articles of incorporation of the Kentucky Home Life Insurance Co., to take over the business of the Inter-Southern Life Insurance Co., were filed today in the county clerk's office by Benjamin S. Washer, attorney.

CURB DRIFTS LOWER IN LISTLESS TRADING

New York, July 19 (A.P.).—The curb market continued to drift in apathetic trading today, and the drift was slightly downward, if indeed it had any direction worth mentioning. The turnover was only 70,000 shares.

Losses in the utilities were largely limited to fractions, but the group generally worked lower. The Public Service of Northern Illinois lost nearly a point, in a few sales. Financing to meet nearby maturities of this company, however, was said to have been virtually completed by a Chicago and New York syndicate. Electric Bond & Share, and the stock of its client company, American Gas & Electric, were also a little lower.

Industrials and specialties were mixed in quiet trading. Safety Car Heater appeared on the tape after a considerable period of inactivity at 16, up 2 points. Aluminum Co., a recent firm spot, yielded a fraction.

In the mining issues, Tech Hughes, a gold stock, sagged ⅝ of a point to 3½ in a large turnover. Newmont Mining, an investment company largely interested in copper, reacted to 6, and closed at 6⅛, after its recent unaccountable jump to 7½ from 4½. There were further reports of offers of copper abroad at 4¾ cents a pound, the lowest on record. Producers continued to ask 5⅝ cents in the domestic market, which is well under the average production cost.

Oils remained sluggish. Crude production last week was substantially curtailed in Oklahoma, which probably brought down the total for the country. Gulf rose more than a point, then lost some of its gain, closing up ¾ net. South Penn was up a fraction, while Indiana was steady.

U. S. Exports of Grain Gain 187,000 Bushels

(Associated Press.)

Grain exports last week from the United States amounted to 928,000 bushels against 741,000 bushels the previous week and 2,196,000 bushels during the corresponding week of last year.

WHEAT VALUES RISE ON CROP LOSS DATA

About 1 Cent Per Bushel Is Added, Despite Hedging; Corn Is Up.

Chicago, July 19 (A.P.).—Disquieting crop advices from spring wheat territory on both sides of the Canadian border did much to turn grain values upward today, contrasting with record lows.

Wheat encountered hedging sales in larger volume on advances, however, and buying power was not broad enough to push the market up much beyond 1 cent a bushel. A late stimulating factor was an unofficial estimate that Italian import requirements of wheat this season would be 75,000,000 bushels, against 32,000,000 imported last season.

Wheat closed firm, ¾ to 1¼ above yesterday's finish; corn ⅜ to ⅝ up; oats ⅛ to ¼ off, and provisions unchanged to 20 cents down.

Crop Deterioration Reports.

Many successive days of extreme heat, 100 degrees and above at various points, brought greatly increased complaints of crop deterioration Northwest as a result of premature ripening. Some North Dakota stations reported wheat prospects reduced more than half. Acute need of rain was also complained of, and it was asserted that parts of southern Saskatchewan showed the bumper crop outlook had been diminished 30 per cent.

A decrease of 2,627,000 bushels in the world's available supply of wheat was announced, making the total now 352,000,000 bushels, 30,000,000 less than at this time last year. Another bullish factor was word from the Southwest that the movement of domestic winter wheat appeared to have passed its peak, with country offerings generally light.

There were advices that corn growth had been too rapid, and that the crop was not standing hot weather as it should. Under scattered selling, all deliveries of oats reached a new low-price record for the season.

Provisions receded with hog values.

Imports amounted to $182,000, of which $135,200 came from Mexico and $46,800 from India. There was an export of $6,004,000 of gold to France, but this was offset by release of a similar amount which had been held under earmark for foreign account.

COTTON ADVANCES ON TRADE'S BUYING

New York, July 19 (A.P.).—A slight early decline in cotton was followed by rallies today on trade buying and covering which found few contracts offered, particularly in the late trading. October, after selling off to 5.72, advanced to 5.88 and closed at 5.87. The general market finished very steady at net advances of 11 to 13 points.

The opening was unchanged to 2 points lower, more active positions showing losses of 2 or 4 points during the early trading. These early offerings were readily absorbed by buying which included some foreign demand through houses with continental connections, and prices soon steadied.

Offerings became very light around midday, but orders were rather evenly divided until toward the close when there was a further demand from the trade combined with covering and accumulation for New Orleans account. Closing prices were, at or within a point of the best for the day.

Sales of New Crop.

Selling of new crop potatoes through brokers with cooperative connections, which has attracted considerable comment recently, was not so much in evidence, although there was some selling of October by spot house brokers.

On the whole the market was sensitive enough to small buying orders to suggest an improved technical position. There was further comment on the very high temperatures reported in the Southwest, but the outlook for showers in the central belt and southeastern Texas seemed to modify the situation in this respect and conflicting opinions were heard as to weather and crop conditions.

Liverpool cables reported local and Bombay liquidation absorbed by trade calling in that market. Port receipts today, 4,433 bales. United States port stocks, 3,448,435.

ALEXANDRIA ISSUES NEW AUTO PERMITS

Andrews Won't Deny That Three Arlington Accounts Are $600,000 Off.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.,
Phone Alexandria 523.

The first permit issued in Alexandria to drive an automobile under the new Virginia law went to Miss Louise Runaldue, of 89 Alexandria avenue, following examination conducted by Capt. of Police John S. Arnold. Of seven applicants four passed successfully. The others will be given another examination soon.

The law requires all beginners to take an examination. Experienced drivers must procure licenses and are required to make affidavit that they have driven at least 500 miles. The final date for procuring the licenses is June 30, 1933.

Carlton Snoots, arraigned in the Alexandria Police Court yesterday on a charge of cutting Charles Gensmer, July 3, was acquitted, while Gensmer, charged with minor assault, was fined $10 and $3 costs.

Mayor Edmund F. Ticer, who witnessed the occurrence, testified he saw Gensmer strike Snoots, and the latter throw Gensmer to the ground. The mayor separated the men, but he said he did not see any cutting. Snoots denied having cut Gensmer.

The hearing of the application of the Alexandria, Barcroft & Washington Bus Co. to abandon service between Alexandria and Fort Hunt and Alexandria and Mount Vernon will be held in Richmond Monday before the State Corporation Commission. The plan of the bus company is to replace these services with service over the Mount Vernon boulevard.

The funeral of H. E. Williams, who was found dead in a Washington hotel Sunday, will be held at 12:30 o'clock today from the Cunningham funeral home. Services will be conducted by the Rev. P. C. Duborg, pastor of the Mount Vernon Baptist Church, Virginia Highlands. Burial will be in Arlington National Cemetery.

Reeder Youths Pass Life-Saving Tests

Nine boys have passed the junior life-saving tests at Camp Reeder, Boys Club summer haven for youths, it was announced yesterday. Two boys have passed the senior tests. Emblems will be presented today.

Because a summer school is keeping many boys from enjoying the camp's attraction, officials have decided to keep Camp Reeder open two additional weeks.

Bus Rerouting Hearing Today.

The Public Utilities Commission today will consider the rerouting of the Arlington, Barcroft & Washington, the Alexandria-Washington, and the Arlington-Fairfax bus lines as a result of the announcement yesterday by the Treasury Department that Thirteenth street below Pennsylvania avenue, will be closed this week to make way for Federal construction.

New Castle, Pa., July 19 (A.P.).—A light that burned after daylight in the home of Frank F. Hyde today led to the discovery that the 50-year-old filling station operator had killed his wife, their daughter and himself. Police, breaking down a door, found Mrs. Hyde, shot through the right breast, dead. Jane, 19, the daughter, lay dead in her bed, shot in the right breast—apparently slain as she slept. Shot and with his throat slashed, Hyde died in his bathtub.

Chicago, July 19 (A.P.).—Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President, will open his party's most intensive campaign July 30. His address in New York City on that day will be followed by a tour of Eastern States ending in New Bedford, Mass., August 21. This will be the first effort of the Socialist party to actively seek votes in the New England States since the World War days.

Sherman, Tex., July 19 (A.P.).—Another Federal Court action seeking to prevent enforcement of State proration of crude oil failed today by decision of a special three-judge court. The court refused application of E. Constantin and other oil operators for a temporary restraining order against the Texas Railroad Commission, the enforcement body.

Los Angeles, July 19 (A.P.).—A second divorce today separated Ian Keith, film actor and Ethel Clayton, film actress. In both suits Miss Clayton accused Keith of cruelty and excessive use of liquor. A decree in the first suit was not entered because of a dispute over property.

Los Angeles, July 19 (A.P.).—A strike of motion picture cameramen tying up twelve productions was called today in the studios of sixteen independent companies by the Independent Cinematographers of the Cameramen's Union. Representatives of the union said the independent companies have refused to pay salaries comparable to those paid by the major producers. Officials of the companies replied they were unable to meet the higher scale because of costs.

New York, July 19 (A.P.).—The President of the United States has virtually mandatory powers to regulate and prevent unfair competition in importing under the terms of the tariff act, the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals ruled today. The United States Supreme Court has held that the Tariff Commission was given specific authority by article 316 of the act to advise the President and has upheld his authority to review the commission's report.

Sweetwater, Tex., July 19 (A.P.).—L. M. Parks, Sweetwater business man, was held without bond after an examining trial today on a charge of murdering his wife, who drowned July 8 at Lake Trammell. Fay Condit, attractive blonde, alleged by the State to have encouraged Parks to commit the alleged offense, admitted that Parks had been paying her bills and associating with her.

Harrison, Ark., July 19 (A.P.).—A. T. Hudspeth, former head of a chain of nine northwest Arkansas banks, pleaded guilty today to a charge of receiving deposits in a bank he knew to be insolvent. The court postponed sentence until January to permit Hudspeth to arrange his personal affairs.

HARVEY PROPERTY REZONING REFUSED

Prince Georges Land Needed for Entrance to Park, Commissioners Told.

A heated hearing before the Prince Georges County commissioners yesterday resulted in their refusal to rezone the Harvey property at Queens Chapel and Ager roads to permit erection of a dairy building. S. H. Harvey represented the dairy, while Irvin Owings and C. Irving Root represented the Park and Planning Commission, which opposed a change in zoning.

Mr. Owings told the commissioners the land on which the dairy would be located was needed for an entrance to a proposed park. Mr. Harvey answered that the park project was indefinite, whereas he planned to build this fall. The commissioners intimated they might change the zoning when he submitted plans of the new building and an agreement to build at once. The Harvey Dairy made application to the commission some time ago for a change from residential to commercial. This was turned down and sent to the county commissioners, who referred it back to the commission, at the same time calling for a public hearing.

Dewey Groves' resignation as chairman of the Mellwood district road committee was accepted by the commissioners, who appointed Reginald Pumphrey in his place. The commissioners also appropriated $1,000 to build a bridge over Rock Branch on the North Keys-Baden road, and $300 for repairs to a bridge over Henson's Branch on the Marlboro-Alexandria road. J. H. Kleine, who painted the jail while a prisoner in it, appeared to ask pay for the job, but was refused.

A joint meeting of the executive committee of the Prince Georges County Firemen's Association and officers of the county rescue squad will be held tonight to discuss future financial relations between the association and the squad.

George L. Henderson, who has been the object of a search by the Federal marshal since April, spent this period working on the farm of Benjamin Parran, brother of U. S. Commissioner J. Frank Parran, who issued the warrant for him, it was brought out at Henderson's hearing on charges of manufacture and possession of liquor.

The newly appointed committee to coordinate welfare and relief work in Prince Georges County will meet again next Monday night to consider a plan to be drawn up by William A. Duvall, former county commissioner. Mr. Duvall presided over the first session of the committee when Dr. B. F. Robertson, pastor of the First Baptist Church, of Hyattsville, was chosen secretary.

Other members of the committee, who were appointed by Dr. C. P. Close, chairman of the County Community Council, are Dr. Harry Nalley, of Mount Rainier; Mrs. James Rose, of Laurel; Earl S. Bellman, instructor of sociology at the University of Maryland, and Dr. Close. Another member, to represent the southern part of the county, will be added later.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

A SEAPORT, miles from the sea, has been established by the French air ministry. The "inland port" was located in the French Alps as a base for seaplanes, on a dam above a canyon. The dam forms a water surface ample for landing seaplanes.

A. L. Anthony, athletic director of the Del Rio, Tex., schools, reports that when Del Rio and Hondo, Tex., baseball teams played recently, everything but the score was tied. Each team, the summary showed, got six hits, one home run, one three-base hit, one two-base hit, three singles, and four errors. Each pitcher fanned six batters and each hit one man with a pitched ball. There were eight runners on each side left on bases, and one man on each team stole third base. The score at the beginning of the ninth inning was 4-4, but at the end of the game Del Rio had won, 5-4.

PHONE RATE HEARING IS MARKED BY CLASH

C. & P. Counsel Asks That Commission's Exhibits Be Rejected.

A clash between William A. Roberts, special counsel of the Public Utilities Commission, and R. A. Van Orsdel, counsel of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., late yesterday climaxed the resumption of the telephone rate hearing and cast a sidelight on the determination of both sides to a fight to a finish.

After Mr. Roberts had introduced evidence through the testimony of Thomas R. Tate, commisison valuation engineer, that the total depreciation of the telephone company property as of December 31, 1931, had been estimated at $9,215,187, or 30.05 per cent of the book cost of $30,664,503, Mr. Van Orsdel made a motion that all of the commission's exhibits as to both valuation and depreciation be rejected.

The basis for the motion was that no valuation could be set up without going through the customary procedure, which would require a year or more, and that the commission is without jurisdiction in estimating the telephone company's depreciation. This latter authority, Mr. Van Orsdel contended rests solely with the Interstate Commerce Commission because of the interstate character of the company.

1924 Order Is Cited.

When Mr. Roberts objected to the motoin on the grounds that the valuation figures are tentative and were submitted for the purpose of rate making and that the right of computing depreciation is granted by paragraph 16 of the public utility act, Mr. Van Orsdel read into the record an order by the utilities body in 1924.

This order, promulgated in a former rate case and by an entirely different body, stated that grave doubt existed as to the commission's jurisdiction over depreciation and consequently acquiesced to the Interstate Commerce Commission without contest.

Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman of the utilities body, took the motion under advisement, upon Mr. Roberts' motion, until all evidence and argument is presented by both sides. He then adjourned the hearing until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Launching an obvious attack on the book figures of the telephone company's property valuation, Mr. Roberts offered a mass of computations by which he intends later to show that the company's rate of return is excessive. Lacking definite information regarding the actual costs of construction, installation and maintenance, except as furnished by the telephone company, he directed his attack on depreciation.

Less Actual Cost.

While telephone officials hold that a fair valuation of the company property is approximately $31,999,000, which is the book cost as of December 31 last, Mr. Roberts submitted evidence that the actual cost of reproduction, less depreciation, would range from $23,955,337 to $21,897,611, or an average of $22,926,474.

The first figure is reached by deducting exclusive toll property, because of its interstate character, and a 23 per cent depreciation, or $6,761,099, as calculated on the basis of 1924 figures. The second computation utilizes the estimate of 30 per cent depreciation, as of 1931, and consequently deducts $8,818,825 as depreciation.

Depreciation data in both instances are obtained from records of the telephone company as to book costs, net additions, and retirements. The 1924 depreciation of 23.06 per cent on a book cost of $17,558,515 is based on a "depreciation study" made by the telephone company in 1924, whereas the 1931 computations are those of the commission staff.

Changes to Dial System.

Changes from the manual to the dial system of operation, now being accomplished, were blamed for much of the depreciation by Mr. Tate. Attention was called to the replacement of exchanges necessitated by installation of the new equipment.

Mr. Tate estimated that the actual construction costs of reproduction of the telephone company's property would be even less than the figures given were a contract actually let.

H. R. Whiting, assistant valuation engineer, testified that Washington ranks second in the number of telephones in proportion to population, being surpassed only by San Francisco. In 1931 there were about 44 telephones for each 100 residents, he said. This, he added, should reduce the service costs.

Earlier Mr. Roberts offered statistical tabulations to show that the reproduction cost of property of the Chesapeake & Potomac Co. used entirely for toll purposes is $665,668.

Letter Reaches Capital From London in 5 Days

Five days after it was mailed from London, England, a letter was delivered to Eugene R. White, director of International Postal Service, in Washington. The communication was sent by G. Herring, chief superintendent of the British Air Mail Service.

This epochal fast mail service was made possible by a fast steamer from England to Belle Isle, Canada, and thence to Washington by airplane. The average time for a letter from London to Washington is seven days.

The mizzenmast canvas of the famous frigate Constitution in silhouette in commemoration of the 134th anniversary of its putting out to sea July 20, 1798.

Crowd Marvels at Skill of Modern Gobs in Handling Sails.

While a bos'n's whistle piped a shrill discord, a swarm of twentieth century sailors unfurled and lanyarded into place the mizzenmast canvas of the U. S. S. Constitution at her mooring at the Washington Navy Yard.

It was the one hundred and thirty-fourth anniversary of the day when the famous frigate first felt the pull of wind against canvas. The first cruise of the Constitution was begun on July 20, 1798, when she dropped down from Charlestown, Mass., where she was built, to Boston Light, and out to sea.

Twenty-eight brawny sailors of 1932 have been schooled in the operation of square-riggers. Yesterday, before a distinguished throng of spectators, which included Attorney General William Mitchell, they proved they could sail before the mast.

The modern seamen—some of them lads of but a year's service in the Navy—can man the nautical artillery of yore, too. To the clipped commands of a smartly uniformed lieutenant, a bare-torsoed gun crew yesterday demonstrated how the 32-pounder carronades were fired in the days of close-locked sea fights.

The gun crew, sweating but enjoying the ceremony, wore cutlasses at their hips and knives in their belts. They were ready to "board the enemy" if the carronades didn't suffice for victory.

The Constitution's original ship's company numbered 475. Under the direction yesterday of Lieut. Comdr. Henry Hartley, of submarine S-vage fame, and Commander Louis J. Gulliver, the crew of 28 filled the crowd with surprise at their agility in climbing to the high cordage of the old fighting ship.

Young naval officers were kept busy explaining to spectators the complex terms bellowed out by the bos'n as he piped the men to their labors in the rigging. The terms "top'l," "t'gallant," "clewline," "buntline," however, were soon at the tongues end of many.

Besides the Attorney General, included among the company present were: Mrs. Ernest Lee Jahncke, wife of the Assistant Secretary of the Navy, and her two daughetrs, Cora and Adele; Rear Admiral Henry V. Butler, commandant of the navy yard, and a number of others.

Girls Pick Apollo At Church Carnival

Benjamin Reed, 22, Is Acclaimed Handsomest Man of Ten Entrants.

After considerable deliberation on the part of the Assumption Girls Club, Benjamin Peed, 22, of 3213 Ninth place southeast, last night was acclaimed the handsomest man on the grounds of the carnival of Assumption Catholic Church at Nichols avenue and Highview place southeast.

The girls' club acted as judges. After the ten entrants in the contest in masculine beauty paraded, the girls marked their choice on ballots and Peed emerged ahead. He is an employe of St. Elizabeths Hospital. He has brown hair, blue eyes and is of medium height. He received a gold piece as his prize.

The carnival will conclude Saturday night. Tomorrow's special feature will be comedy night. A prize will be awarded to the person donned in the most ludicrous costume.

Boy, Struck by Truck, Suffers Lacerations

Eight-year-old Robert Lanham, of 1251 W street southeast, suffered lacerations to the forehead when he was knocked down at Nichols avenue and W street southeast, by a truck operated by Herman Owens, of Oxon Hill, Md., yesterday.

According to witnesses the boy ran from behind a parked automobile and into the path of Owens' vehicle. He was treated at Casualty Hospital.

Policemen Target For Whisky Jars

Fires Two Shots Into Car of Rumrunners, Who Make Escape.

A policeman was showered with half-gallon jars of whisky and was forced to display his agility in dodging an alleged whisky car early yesterday and in defense fired two shots into the body of the machine, but the occupants got away.

Private C. B. McDonald, of the Third Precinct, was the policeman who spent an exciting few minutes on Willard street between Seventeenth and Eighteenth streets northwest.

He said he approached a car parked in the middle of the street without lights. As he stepped into the street the car was thrown in gear and dashed at him. He jumped aside and a man on the running-board hurled the first half-gallon jar at his head. McDonald fired one shot into the car. The machine was blocked by a milk wagon and its driver threw it into reverse and again attempted to run the policeman down. McDonald fired again, but the driver backed into Seventeenth street and escaped.

Boy Hurt by Fall Into Excavation.

Harold Hull, 7, of 5311 Georgia avenue northwest, was severely cut about the head yesterday when he fell into an excavation while playing near Georgia avenue and Military road. He was treated at Walter Reed Hospital for multiple lacerations of the head and possible concussion.

U.S. PART IN SPANISH REVOLT IS REVIEWED

Dr. W. R. Manning, in Lecture on War of 1898, Quotes Official Data.

The part played by the United States in the revolt of Spain's American colonies, as reflected in the diplomatic correspondence of the period, was reviewed yesterday by Dr. William R. Manning, of the Division of Latin American Affairs of the Department of State and professor of history in American University, before the conference on Hispanic American affairs at the George Washington University.

Dr. Manning, who is editing the "Diplomatic Correspondence of the United States Concerning the Independence of the Latin American Nations," quoted from the correspondence to show that this country's attitude toward the independence movements was decidedly friendly. Belligerent rights, though not formally extended to the revolting colonies, were tacitly recognized, thus placing Spain and her American colonies on an equal basis, the lecturer showed. The correspondence also indicates that during the period from 1810 to 1820, when the South American countries were establishing their independence, special agents were sent by this Government to give aid to the revolutionary leaders, to assure them of the good will of the United States and to maintain trade.

Referring to the relations of European nations to Latin America during the revolutionary period, Dr. Manning pointed out that England, traditionally the enemy of Spain, encouraged the revolts of Spain's American colonies until the time of Napoleon's seizure of Spain and Portugal, 1810-13. England's primary object then became the defeat of Napoleon, in consequence of which she executed a complete right-about-face to act as the close ally of Spain until after the overthrow of the French emperor, during which time she tried to prevent the independence of the colonies. The English people, however, treated the colonies as actually independent and hoped for this outcome, the lecturer said.

Dr. Manning will continue his discussion before the conference today and will be followed tomorrow and Friday by Dr. N. A. N. Cleven, professor of history at the University of Pittsburgh, who will lecture on "Modern Political Life."

ENGINEERS PLANNING MORE WATER HERE

345,000,000 Gallons to Be Added to City's Supply; Dam Proposed..

Plans for increasing the water supply of the District by 345,000,000 gallons are now being considered by Secretary of War Hurley and Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, Chief of Engineers. Congress has already made $150,000 available for the project which would give the city an emergency supply long enough to last five days instead of the present supply, which would only last a day and a half.

The new plan calls for the erection of a dam at the west end of Dalecarlia Reservoir. Specifications were drawn up in the office of the District engineer for the War Department for the Washington area, Maj. Joseph D. Arthur, jr.

Providing that the present plans are improved it is not believed that the work will be finished in less than a year as it will take approximately six months to design and construct new pumps to handle the increased amount of water.

In addition to the increased amount of drinking water made available the generation of more electrical power will also be made possible. Maj. Arthur, the District engineer for the War Department, has said that there is little chance of a water famine here as even during the drought two years ago the supply did not become low.

Struck by Shrapnel in '86, Man Asks Pension Increase

Former Seaman Declares He Will Lose Home if Plea Is Refused.

Basing his argument on a piece of shrapnel he has carried in his head for 46 years, William C. Hammond, 65, of 107 School street, Ballston, Va., is seeking additional compensation from the Government.

The piece of shrapnel penetrated Mr. Hammond's left temple while he was in the naval service aboard the U. S. S. Essex, December 14, 1886. He received the wound when a torpede exploded.

Discovery that Mr. Hammond was carrying around a piece of shrapnel was not made until years later. In the meantime he was allowed $14 a month disability compensation for the wound, according to records.

He entered the postoffice in Washington July, 1894, at $500 a year, and on June 7, 1917, was transferred from the postoffice to the Washington Navy Yard. When the United States declared war on Germany Mr. Hammond was discharged on the minimum retirement age, with a rating of "conduct very good, rating good," the records show.

Mr. Hammond claims he had no right to be discharged at this time as there existed an order requiring that no person holding an honorable discharge of disability should be removed through a reduction in forces.

Since his retirement Mr. Hammond has received $47.78 monthly pension and the fact that he is entitled to disability compensation, because of the shrapnel, has been ignored, he said. A bill providing for this additional compensation has been introduced on Mr. Hammond's behalf by Representative Howard W. Smith, of Virginia.

WILLIAM C. HAMMOND.

Mr. Hammond claims that despite his wound he has been healthy and capable of performing clerical work. Due to his age he has been unable to get employment in the past seven years, he said. He stated his life savings are dwindling and that he will lose his home at the end of this year if he is unable to meet the cost of the renewal of the trust.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

IN corroboration of this department's confident prediction published in the Sabbath lead, "Concerning the Great Garbo," on July 3, word comes simultaneously from the Pacific Coast and in Sime Silverman's Variety that with Joseph Buehler, her New York attorney, on hand in Hollywood, final papers are being drawn for the Great Seclusionist to continue as a star on the roster of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. The weekly salary agreed upon is reputed to be $12,500, two pictures and 40 weeks a year guaranteed. The contract is for a period of three years with the usual options.

Garbo is supposed to leave Hollywood today on the first leg of a three months' vacation trip that will take her to Sweden for a long rest. It is planned for her to reach New York just in time to board her boat—to avoid being chased up and down hotel freight elevators in a more or less futile effort to elude the ravenous metropolitan news hounds, interviewers and gossip columnists.

Marian Chace and Lester Shafer, with the Washington Denishawn group of dancers, will present the third of the summer festival programs in the Sylvan Theater, Washington Monument Grounds, tonight at 8:15 o'clock, under the joint auspices of the Community Center Department and the Office of Public Buildings and Parks, assisted by the National Capital Civic Fund. The program will be made up of a series of solo and ensemble dances, with Willa Semple, concert and radio accompanist, as accompanist.

Incense, Nipponese lights—suspected of being Straits Settlement slang for Japanese lanterns—and a group of lovely Geisha girls will transform the Shoreham terrace into a bit of the Orient for this evening only, when a "Night Orientale" will be celebrated by Barnee and his Riviera Orchestra, all done up in mandarin robes, assisted by a spirited floor show. Even the menu will be Chino-Japanese, despite recent hostilities!

And that reminds me. Anna May Wong, the alluring Oriental actress who comes to Loew's Fox Friday in company with Una Merkel and George Sidney, has never tasted chop-suey and doesn't know enough Chinese even to swear surreptitiously in that tongue when annoyed in mixed company. When she becomes angry she relies upon the vocabulary of German expletives. She speaks American with a strong British accent. So you will have to do the best you can and figure it out for yourself. Anna May was born in Los Angeles in 1907, the daughter of a laundryman. Her real name is Tsong Liu Wong, meaning Frosted Yellow Willows—a fair match for Conchita Montenegro's Littleshell Blackmountain!

Three famous early day movie serial thrillers, which made Pearl White one of the first of the celluloid stars, will be filmed again. Universal is to remake "The Perils of Pauline," "The Exploits of Elaine" and "The New Exploits of Elaine," having purchased the rights from RKO-Pathe.

Sam H. Harris' first fall production will be "Breakfast at Eight," a new collaboration by Edna Ferber and George S. Kaufman, who had something to do with "The Royal Family," if you remember.

Mae West, sent to the Coast by William Morris to play a part for Paramount, may stay on as a writer of inflammatory screen material for Jean Harlow and Marlene Dietrich, although the word does not come direct from Deacon Will H. Hays!

Incidentally, in complete reversal of Louis B. Mayer's impassioned declaration at a luncheon in Washington a few years ago, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer of a sudden is going in heavily for sex. "Congai" has been purchased and report has it that deals are on for the screen rights of two foreign books banned in this country. There is talk of borrowing Anna Sten for one of them.

Evidently the producers wanta ban Anna!
